2 Face Charges In Salem Holdup

LISBON — Charges of armed robbery and truck theft were to be filed today against two men wounded by gunfire in their capture after a holdup of a floor covering store just west of Salem Thursday afternoon.

Samuel Minor, 32, of Youngstown and John Pounds, 33, of Alliance were both wounded in the head by a shotgun blast fired by Alliance Police Sgt. Joseph Short.

—:—

THE PAIR is linked with a $90 holdup of the store along Route 62 a mile west of Salem yesterday afternoon, and a police pursuit began when the store owner provided a description of the bandits. The chase ended at Alliance when they were spotted by police.

Short fired a shotgun at the men as they fled from a red pickup truck that police chased to an auto wrecking lot.

Minor was felled in the lot and Pounds was arrested a short time later near the Mahoning River.

Pounds was reported in "fair" condition at Alliance City Hospital and was to be released today. Minor was treated for a gunshot wound, then taken to the Alliance city jail.

—:—

POLICE SAID the red truck had been stolen from Ronald Tuel, an Alliance carpenter.

Ike Lippiatt, manager of the store on U. S. 62 a mile west of Salem, was alone when two robbers walked in. They bound Lippiatt, took $90 and fled in a red truck, which the store manager later described to police.

The chase began when police tried to intercept the truck.

—:—

COLUMBIANA County Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan said his department would file the robbery charge against the two suspects.

The charge of armed robbery was slated to be filed in Northwest County Court at Salem later today.

The truck theft charge was planned at Alliance.

Columbiana County Deputies Ronald Gause and Howard Gray were to pick up the pair when Pounds is released from the hospital.

School Board Undecided On Filling Heasley's Post

Whether the Board of Education Monday night will even consider a successor to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of William C. Heasley remains uncertain today.

Four reasons have been cited for a possible delay in choosing a successor to Heasley, whose mailed resignation was delivered to the board's office on Feb. 17.

1—The board will not act officially on the resignation until Monday night.

2—There is a possibility of action being delayed for another 10 days, depending on the interpretation of state law.

3—Mrs. Nessie R. Dunlop, vice president, is not scheduled to return from Florida until Sunday night and may be unaware of Heasley's action.

4—The possibility the four members may not agree on a successor. Numerous names have been mentioned for the remainder of his four - year term ending in 1967.

The board's action in accepting the resignation and the interpretation of the state law are linked closely together.

In his letter to the board, Heasley tendered his resignation effective "immediately."

State law requires the board cannot act earlier than 10 days after the vacancy is created.

If the wording in Heasley's letter is interpreted literally, the board could be free to act as soon as it chooses since the 10-day period since his resignation was received has lapsed.

However, if the waiting period starts at the time the resignation is accepted officially, the board may be unable to act until its meeting March 16.

Since the board has not had a meeting since Feb. 3 and Mrs. Dunlop has been out of town, she may seek a delay to allow additional time to consider a successor.

At least one board member is reported urging immediate action while another reportedly feels the four members should meet privately to discuss possible successors.

In his letter, Heasley recommended the board select Herman L. (Bud) Steffen to fill the remainder of the four - year post. However, some board members said they believe this was "presumptuous."

Other names mentioned for the post include four unsuccessful candidates last year. Most prominently mentioned of the four is Richard Smith of St. George St., who finished fourth in the seven-man field for three seats.

Trailing Smith in order were Joseph G. Reed, William Blair Jr. and Harry L. Simpson.

Other names mentioned include James Moss, who served eight years on the board but did not seek re-election last fall, and Mrs. Ethel Lynn Wambaugh, who is active in the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Unless three of the four members agree, the method of choosing a successor may hinge

4 Convicted Of Kidnaping White Couple

3 Negroes, White Man May Get Life; Sentencing Delayed

MONROE, N.C. (AP)—Three Negroes and a white man have been convicted of kidnaping a white couple in the aftermath of a 1961 race riot. The maximum sentence is life imprisonment.

Superior Court Judge Walter Brock delayed sentencing Thursday after an all-white jury found each of the defendants guilty of two counts of kidnaping. The jury deliberated 35 minutes.

Scheduled for sentencing today were Mrs. Willie Mae Mallory, 37, Macon, Ga., and Brooklyn, N.Y.; Harold Reape, 19, and Richard Crowder, 21, both of Monroe, all Negroes; and John C. Lowry, 23, Flushing, N.Y., who came to Monroe as a white "Freedom Rider."

Defense attorneys William Kunstler of New York and Walter S. Haffner of Cleveland, Ohio, indicated they will appeal.

Interracial picketing around the Union County courthouse touched off a melee the afternoon of Aug. 27, 1961. A few hours later, a white couple, Mr. and Mrs. G. Bruce Stegall of Marshville, N.C., were stopped by a crowd in a Negro section, bound back to back, and held hostage for 3½ hours.

Kunstler, who represented Lowry, told the jury that Lowry's part in the kidnaping was done as a "foolish, stupid act in a moment of excitement." Testimony was that after the Stegalls were taken from their car, Lowry drove it from the middle of the street to the curb in front of the home of Robert Williams, 39, a Monroe Negro leader now in Cuba.

Herman Gower New Candidate At Chester

Herman Gower, 64, of Virginia Ave., Chester, filed Thursday as a candidate for Republican nomination for Third Ward Councilman in the city's April 7 primary election. The election is June 2.

Gower, owner of a Carolina Ave. bakery and snack shop, served as Third Ward councilman in 1952-57. He is a veteran of World War I and a member of the American Legion Post 121 and VFW Post 6450. He is married and has a son and daughter.

Johnson's Florida Talk 'Solid' For Civil Rights

Train Blast Spurs Move By Johnson

Asks Wirtz To Talk With Gov. Bryant, Present Proposals

BULLETIN

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The FBI will send a chief inspector and a force of 30 agents to crack down on violence in the Florida East Coast Railway strike. The action was sparked by presidential command following the dynamiting of a train near where President Johnson was speaking.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The full force of the federal government was brought to bear on the Florida East Coast Railway strike on presidential command today following the dynamiting of a train near the spot where President Johnson was speaking.

Johnson asked Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz to confer today with Florida Gov. Farris Bryant, then present recommendations for federal action.

Also, at Johnson's request, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover dispatched a top-notch inspector to head an FBI crackdown on the sabotage.

"This criminal action has got to stop," the President declared as he departed from what had been a purely political address to a Democratic fund-raising dinner Thursday night.

"I am not passing judgment on who is right or who is wrong," Johnson said. "But as the leader and spokesman for all the people of this nation, I am saying that you cannot take the law into your own hands."

Johnson was late appearing at the banquet and apologized, saying he had been conferring with Hoover and Wirtz.

Railroad officials list more than 200 acts of sabotage since the strike began Jan. 23, 1963. The violence started after the road began moving freight with nonunion help about six weeks after the walkout.

The tempo picked up three months ago after a presidential emergency board recommended that the road give its 1,300 off-train workers the raise they asked, and the road refused.

This Presidential Campaign Year

Rusk Intends To Avoid Partisan Political Moves

WASHINGTON (AP)—Despite an initial quick clash with Republican critics of administration foreign policy, Secretary of State Dean Rusk says he intends to avoid partisan political activities in this presidential campaign year.

But Rusk told a news conference that he cannot help "talking about foreign policy" during the next several months. What he will do, he said, is discuss foreign affairs issues "on a national basis, a bipartisan basis."

Rusk said in response to questions that "it's the desire of the President — the traditional desire of presidents—not to have the secretary of state take part in partisan political activities—and that suits my own personal attitude very well."

How fully he can succeed in this goal is unclear, however, because his news conference at the State Department Thursday afternoon brought questions of a kind he is certain to face more and more as the "grand inquest," as he called it, of policy discussion develops during this campaign season.

He was asked directly whether he would agree with a statement which the questioner attributed to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, a Republican presidential nomination contender, that the administration is deliberately hiding the facts of the war in Viet Nam from the American people.

He was also asked whether Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Senate Republican leader, was correct in saying that administration policy for Viet Nam is an enigma.

Such charges from the opposition party are beginning to bring home to Johnson administration leaders that they probably face a major debate over the President's handling of foreign policy.

"I don't believe," Rusk said, "that our policy is an enigma. And as far as the facts are concerned, we get a very heavy flow of facts from there (Viet Nam). I think they are made public out there and back here.

"There are some situations, of course, which you don't talk about.

"But I think the fact that there is concern in this country about the upsurge of Viet Cong (Red guerrilla) activity in the last three of four months represents the fact that the people have been informed that there is a problem, and it must be dealt with."

President Cuffs GOP In Address

Shakes Hands With Crowds, Visits Late President's Father

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Johnson opened his 1964 election campaign by taking a solid stand for civil rights before a Southern audience.

He also shook hands with street-corner crowds, paid a visit to the father of the late President John F. Kennedy in Palm Beach, cuffed the Republicans, and generally seemed to enjoy himself on a quick, four-stop trip to a hotel nightclub to see the entertainers Tony Martin and Cyd Charisse.

After all that he was up early for the flight back to Washington today. Leaving his hotel at 5:30 a.m. EST he flew by helicopter to Homestead Air Force Base, took off by jet at 6:05 a.m. and landed at Andrews Air Force Base outside the capital at 8:12.

Johnson told 3,000 fellow Democrats at a fund-raising dinner Thursday night that "full participation in our society can no longer be reserved to men of one color."

"The administration," he said "intends to press forward with legislation, with education and with action until we have eliminated the last barrier of intolerance." The applause was modest.

Four times, Johnson was applauded when he said that all Americans—regardless of color, region or religion—have certain constitutional rights and human rights that must be respected.

But, to observers on the sidelines, it appeared that about half the audience sat still and silent.

Miami Beach was the fourth stop on Johnson's Florida tour. He flew from Washington to Jacksonville Naval Air Station where, after shaking a few hands, he proceeded by helicopter to Palatka to break ground for the cross-Florida barge canal that will link the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts.

After returning to the air station, Johnson flew by jet transport to Palm Beach, where he paid a courtesy call on ailing Joseph P. Kennedy, father of the late president. Then Johnson, his wife and two daughters boarded a helicopter and followed the coast to Miami Beach.

Although a number of these moves were made without advance announcement, Johnson gave no sign that he was concerned about his safety.

At least five times during his Miami Beach stay, the President waded into thick crowds to shake hands, and the crowd pushed and shoved around him.

Johnson Threatened, Miami Report Hints

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — While President Johnson was visiting the Miami area Thursday, a man who reportedly threatened his life was sought by police at the request of the Secret Service.

Two visits to his home failed to locate him but he telephoned police a taunt in betweentimes, the Miami Herald said. Officers declined to name the man.

Injury Jolts Glenn's Plans On Campaign

Ex-Astronaut Had Planned To Start Drive On Monday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A mild concussion from a bathroom fall has jolted Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.'s plans for retiring from the Marine Corps and starting his campaign for a U.S. Senate seat.

Glenn is in Grant Hospital. The concussion is the result of a fall in his Columbus apartment Wednesday. He will be there at least until Saturday, possibly longer.

The former astronaut had planned to start his campaign for incumbent Sen. Stephen M. Young's Senate seat Monday, but aides said that all scheduled appearances for at least next week had been canceled.

His schedule called for at least two speeches next week in which the former space hero was expected to outline his position on the major political issues.

One was to have been given Monday night at Zanesville in his home county, and the other at a fund-raising dinner Thursday night at Akron.

Glenn's retirement from the Marine Corps—which he said earlier would precede any political statements—remained uncertain pending his release from the Corps. Marine Corps headquarters in Washington said officers' retirement orders automatically are canceled if they are in the hospital on the effective date. Glenn's orders are scheduled to take effect March 1 (Sunday).

A surgeon on the case said Glenn becomes dizzy when he stands and his head pain increases when he changes position. A hospital's spokesman termed it "a king-sized headache" but added Glenn is showing gradual improvement and may be able to have more visitors in a day or two.

Glenn's mental processes are unaffected and he apparently had no dizzy spell before his fall, doctors said. He was attempting to replace a detached bathroom mirror at the time.

No special nurses are on duty, but Glenn's wife has spent a great deal of the time in his room since her arrival Wednesday from Texas.

St. Clair Land Acquired For New Church

Sale of a large tract of commercial property on outer St. Clair Ave. to the Bradshaw Ave. Church of Christ as the site for a new church was announced today by the W. E. Kaiser Real Estate Agency.

The congregation purchased two acres of level land on the east side of St. Clair Ave. Ext. from the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters, and the Kaiser Agency conducted the transaction. No purchase price was disclosed.

Evangelist Gary L. Vaught, minister, said purchase of the property was the first step in plans for building a new church, and officials are in the process of selecting the type of structure.

The pastor said no definite figure on the cost has been reached as yet but it is expected to range from $100,000 to $150,000.

The property fronts 217 feet on St. Clair Ave. Ext. and is 500 feet deep.

The present Bradshaw Ave. church was built in 1930 after the former house of worship on Thompson Ave. was destroyed by fire.

There are 200 members in the congregation, and Evangelist Vaught has been pastor for two years. Name of the new church is expected to be the St. Clair Ave. Church of Christ.

Midland Case Recalled With Capture Of 2

One Of Fugitives Of Pittsburgh Facility Had Cut Policeman

Two escapees from the Allegheny County Workhouse in Pittsburgh, one of them serving time for aggravated assault and battery on a Midland policeman, are being questioned by Louisville (Ky.) police after capture there Wednesday night.

Dennis Kirk Neely, 23, of Madison, arrested in Midland Aug. 19 after walking away from the Grafton State Prison Farm near Lorain, and Norman Paul Kinzey, 27, of Indiana Township were arrested by Louisville police while getting into a car stolen Tuesday night in Grafton, W. Va., the FBI said.

After first giving false names, they admitted their identities when told their fingerprints matched those of the workhouse escapees, federal agents said. They escaped from the Workhouse Feb. 21 by scaling a wall during the showing of a training film.

The FBI has filed charges of interstate transportation of a stolen vehicle against the pair.

Neely and Kinzey were outfitted in new clothes and had a loaded .25-caliber pistol when arrested. Louisville police are

Injury Jolts Glenn's Plans On Campaign

Ex-Astronaut Had Planned To Start Drive On Monday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A mild concussion from a bathroom fall has jolted Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.'s plans for retiring from the Marine Corps and starting his campaign for a U.S. Senate seat.

Glenn is in Grant Hospital. The concussion is the result of a fall in his Columbus apartment Wednesday. He will be there at least until Saturday, possibly longer.

The former astronaut had planned to start his campaign for incumbent Sen. Stephen M. Young's Senate seat Monday, but aides said that all scheduled appearances for at least next week had been canceled.

His schedule called for at least two speeches next week in which the former space hero was expected to outline his position on the major political issues.

One was to have been given Monday night at Zanesville in his home county, and the other at a fund-raising dinner Thursday night at Akron.

Glenn's retirement from the Marine Corps—which he said earlier would precede any political statements—remained uncertain pending his release from the Corps. Marine Corps headquarters in Washington said officers' retirement orders automatically are canceled if they are in the hospital on the effective date. Glenn's orders are scheduled to take effect March 1 (Sunday).

A surgeon on the case said Glenn becomes dizzy when he stands and his head pain increases when he changes position. A hospital's spokesman termed it "a king-sized headache" but added Glenn is showing gradual improvement and may be able to have more visitors in a day or two.

Glenn's mental processes are unaffected and he apparently had no dizzy spell before his fall, doctors said. He was attempting to replace a detached bathroom mirror at the time.

No special nurses are on duty, but Glenn's wife has spent a great deal of the time in his room since her arrival Wednesday from Texas.

St. Clair Land Acquired For New Church

Sale of a large tract of commercial property on outer St. Clair Ave. to the Bradshaw Ave. Church of Christ as the site for a new church was announced today by the W. E. Kaiser Real Estate Agency.

The congregation purchased two acres of level land on the east side of St. Clair Ave. Ext. from the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters, and the Kaiser Agency conducted the transaction. No purchase price was disclosed.

Evangelist Gary L. Vaught, minister, said purchase of the property was the first step in plans for building a new church, and officials are in the process of selecting the type of structure.

The pastor said no definite figure on the cost has been reached as yet but it is expected to range from $100,000 to $150,000.

The property fronts 217 feet on St. Clair Ave. Ext. and is 500 feet deep.

The present Bradshaw A v e. church was built in 1930 after the former house of worship on Thompson Ave. was destroyed by fire.

There are 200 members in the congregation, and Evangelist Vaught has been pastor for two years. Name of the new church is expected to be the St. Clair Ave. Church of Christ.

U.N. Council Waits Cyprus Peace Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Diplomatic sources said today that there is some chance the U.N. Security Council will get a resolution this weekend to provide an international peace force and a mediator for the Cyprus crisis.

These sources expressed belief that the resolution, if it materializes, will eventually be adopted.

The council was under new pressure from Britain, which indicated Thursday it would abandon the job of keeping peace on Cyprus if an international force is not setup soon.

Sir Patrick Dean, the chief British delegate, told the council: "It is neither helpful nor fitting for us to continue to carry out this thankless task if there is no prospect of an international force or steps toward an agreed solution of the problems of the republic."

Dean said, however, that Britain is ready to contribute troops to an international force.

Britain normally has a garrison of 2,000 men on Cyprus but has sent 5,000 more at the request of Cypriot President Makarios to enforce the cease-fire that ended the Christmas-time fighting between the Greek Cypriot majority and the Turkish Cypriot minority.

The resolution to authorize the international force and a mediator was reported being prepared by Bolivia, Brazil, the Ivory Coast, Morocco and Norway.

Continuance Granted In Wounding Charges

WEIRTON—Acting on a motion of Brooke County Prosecutor J. Park McMullen, Squire Lee Rogerson Thursday afternoon continued until Saturday at 11 a. m. hearings for two young men charged in connection with the wounding of a high school student Friday night.

The defendants are John J. Epsilantis, 21, of Burgettstown, R. D. 1, and Robert J. Kalinowski, 22, of Weirton.

Epsilantis is charged with felonious assault and carrying a concealed weapon without a license, and Kalinowski is charged with throwing a .38-caliber pistol into the Ohio River after it discharged.

The bullet creased the stomach of Robert J. Marcantonio, 18, of Weirton. Squire Rogerson is from Follansbee.

'Black Damp' Danger Cited In Old Mines

SALINEVILLE — After an investigation of youngsters exploring abandoned coal and clay mines, Police Chief Roy Lewis today warned parents to make certain their children do not enter the shafts where they face possible death from "black damp."

Chief Lewis said the investigation showed some youngsters have passed out in the mines and had to be carried outside by their companions. At least one became ill but it is not known whether it was from the gas, the chief added.

The presence of the "black damp" was indicated when the teen-age boys reported the flames of carbide and kerosene lamps they used in the mines went out, Chief Lewis said.

After receiving reports that six boys ranging from 15 to 17 had entered the mines, Chief Lewis contacted John Kirkland, state mine inspector.

Some of the boys showed the chief and the inspector the locations of eight openings through which they had entered the shafts. The investigation also disclosed that many smaller youngsters also had explored the openings.

Chief Lewis said there are about 20 openings into former coal and clay mines in the area and said the youngsters' exploring was a "very hazardous" practice.

Property owners are responsible for sealing the shafts, the chief said, pointing out they eventually will be closed although it may take some time to locate all the owners.

Neely and Gary Risher of East Liverpool were picked up by Midland officers Sgt. George Tepovich and Patrolman William Reich after a tip the pair, then escapees from the Ohio prison farm, had been seen in Midland.

Risher was unarmed but a 5½-inch "Japanese dagger" was found on Neely when the two officers searched the pair before putting them in a cruiser for the trip to the Midland jail.

After they were in the cruiser, Neely pulled another dagger which hadn't been found. Sgt. Tepovich knocked it from his hand and in the struggle for it was cut below the right knee.

Neely was charged with aggravated assault and battery and carrying a concealed weapon. He was sentenced to a year in the workhouse.

His partner, Kinzey was serving a workhouse term for armed robbery and escape. He escaped from the workhouse last April 17 and was captured May 22 following an armed robbery.

Surgical Triumph May Make Life Easier For Paraplegics

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A surgical triumph scored by an Ohio State University doctor should make life much more pleasant for many paraplegics.

Dr. Hanry N. Habib, instructor in urology at the university's College of Medicine, reports that an operation performed on a 16-year-old boy earlier this month has enabled the boy to empty his bladder by a painless electrical stimulation.

The boy, Mark Jackson of Neffs, Belmont County, was paralyzed after an automobile accident 16 months ago and was unable to make his bladder function.

Like most paraplegics, he was forced to use a catheter, a cumbersome appliance which collects unrine and empties the bladder. Dr. Habib points out that catheters often cause infections and lead to stone formations in the bladder.

The Jackson boy now has a tiny electrode implanted over the sensitive sacral nerve in the posterior part of his bladder. The electrode is attached by wires to a circular disc just under his skin, and by applying a primary induction coil to the skin over the disc, he is able to empty his bladder.

This method of controlling the bladder, says Dr. Habib, will make patients feel more social.

A battery operates the electrode system, Dr. Habib explains, and an impulse causes effective and painless bladder contraction.

He said electrical stimulation of the bladder has been worked on for several years but that attempts had always proved painful to patients.

Dr. Habib began working on the problem in 1962 after receiving a $4,000 grant from the American Cancer Society. Success in experiments with dogs led to another grant, for $69,000 last year from the National Institute of Health.

Bigger Than Bobby Baker

Edward Bennett Williams, lawyer for Bobby Baker in the hearings of the Senate Rules Committee, may have the U.S. Senate over a barrel.

He has challenged it to show what law it is getting ready to pass by holding the Baker hearings. If no law is in prospect, the hearings have no validity. His client does not have to answer any questions.

Lawyer Williams is not the first to raise this point. But he is raising it in connection with a situation that gives the point special force. His client was not a civil servant, nor a member of the executive department. He was not an errant businessman, nor a militarist. He was an employe of the Democratic majority of the U.S. Senate—one of the insiders.

Whatever he may have done that was wrong, in the sense of its being allegedly illegal, should be the subject of an accusation by the executive branch of the government, not by the Senate.

IF THERE are no grounds for accusation — if in fact Mr. Baker violated no law — Senate investigators have no reason to be using their time and public funds to dry-clean their dirty political linen in a Senate hearing.

It is obvious thay have no law in mind to prevent a recurrence of Bobby Bakerism, which was nothing more or less than exploitation of a certain position in the legislative branch of government, to make money.

Many legislators do this routinely.

The U.S. Senate is not about to propose a law that would slam the door on any of its prized prerogatives. The man whose lawyer is putting Senate investigators on the defensive cannot be accused of violating a prerogative, only a law.

Mr. Baker still would be the clerk of the Democratic majority and no one even would be inquiring into his affairs if there hadn't been a squawk guy, an outsider. His employers had evinced no dissatisfaction. They liked what he was doing.

DOZENS AND hundreds of citizens summoned to testify before Senate and House investigating committees in the past have wondered about the propriety of being put on trial, in effect, without the right to cross-examine, to face their accusers and make rebuttals.

The question has been raised many times of the legislative right to conduct "sniffing expeditions" which had no evident connection with preparation of new laws.

The Baker case may set precedents in regard to these matters that will dwarf whatever it was Bobby Baker did with his influence as a Senate insider.

The investigative power of Congress is being challenged.

A Lump Of Sugar

No one with his own health and the health of his loved ones at stake should require persuasion to take advantage of the Sabin oral polio vaccine clinics starting in the Midland area Sunday.

That the knockout punch has been delivered against the crippling and killing disease is shown in this week's report that the first three consecutive polio-free weeks on U. S. records was chalked up in January.

But polio still exists as a threat, primarily because full advantage has not been taken of the Salk and Sabin vaccines.

It is vital that young and old alike in the Midland district take the small lumps of sugar with the drops of vaccine in these series of clinics, so that the area can be freed of the disease.

The clinics held in Columbiana County in the past showed how simply and quickly the clinics can serve the vaccine, and how effectively polio can be stamped out.

Everyone should "take his lumps" come Sunday, from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. at Midland High School and Western Beaver High School.

Tax Cut May Be Dubious Windfall

By DAVID LAWRENCE

The big news today is that the personal tax cut, amounting to approximately $6 billion this year, is at last a reality. Does this mean that the people will promptly go on a "spending spree" and pay out all that money?

David Lawrence

The national economy is so big that it will be a long time before statistics are available telling just what people will have done with their tax cut.

President Johnson himself, however, used the word "frugality" not long ago in talking to the nation, and it is just conceivable that the American people may decide to be "frugal" with a good part of the tax cut they will get. The dictionary defines a frugal person as one who is "not wasteful" and who doesn't "spend freely or unnecessarily."

The theory that every time there is a tax cut the taxpayers will immediately spend all of it and will not give any thought to saving isn't one that can be applied to everybody.

Private debt, for example, at the moment is the biggest in history. Many people owe money on various items they have bought on the installment plan and some are behind in their payments, either because of unemployment or high medical expenses or other misfortunes.

Much of the money obtained through the tax cut can, therefore, result in payment of debt. There are lots of people, too, who are trying to "save up for a rainy day." There are children who will be going to college next year, and there will be other expected expenditures for the future which will cause the family to put aside the extra money obtained from the tax cut.

THUS, IT ISN'T certain that all the extra money will actually be spent. Saving is an important characteristic of many citizens. Lots of people will invest their money in savings bonds, or put their funds in savings banks where they can draw interest. Many an individual who has faced hardships in the past and gets some extra money isn't inclined to spend it right away on luxuries.

The best available statistic on past years indicate that spending in the United States usually amounts to somewhere between 92 and 94 per cent of the income, and this is equivalent to about two-thirds of the gross national product.

There is no way of knowing at this time just how much of the money will be used to pay off notes or accumulated bills of the past. Many people are in financial difficulties.

In the year ending June 30, 1964, for instance, an estimated 157,000 persons will have filed as bankrupts. This is more than three times the number in 1955, although personal income is the highest on record and is steadily rising.

Many families spend all their income and borrow on future income and then get into difficulties if they have high medical expenses or if other emergencies develop.

Millions of citizens will average between $3 and $5 a week in extra money through the tax cut. This will come in handy in many homes, but the extent to which it will be used to relieve past indebtedness is certainly going to be a factor in determining the extent of the spending in the expected business boom.

THE NEWS headlines refer to an $11.5-billion tax cut," but this doesn't happen all in one year, and includes corporations. For the year 1964, the cut in personal taxes amounts to $6.1 billion. In a national economy in which the gross national product is being projected for this year as rising considerably from last year's total of $585 billion, it cannot be anticipated just what the impact of the $6.1 billion will be on the whole business situation.

If a large portion of it is saved instead of spent, or if much of it goes for the payment of past indebtedness, there is a question as to just how much stimulus to business will result from the 1964 tax cut.

The middle and low-income groups, with incomes under $10,000 a year, will get about $3.6 billion of the 1964 cut — 60 per cent of the total. There will be a temptation among these groups to spend the money for immediate necessities.

In the higher brackets — the people who do most of the saving — it seems plausible to assume that much of the $2.5 billion in reduced taxes will be invested in securities or saved in other forms.

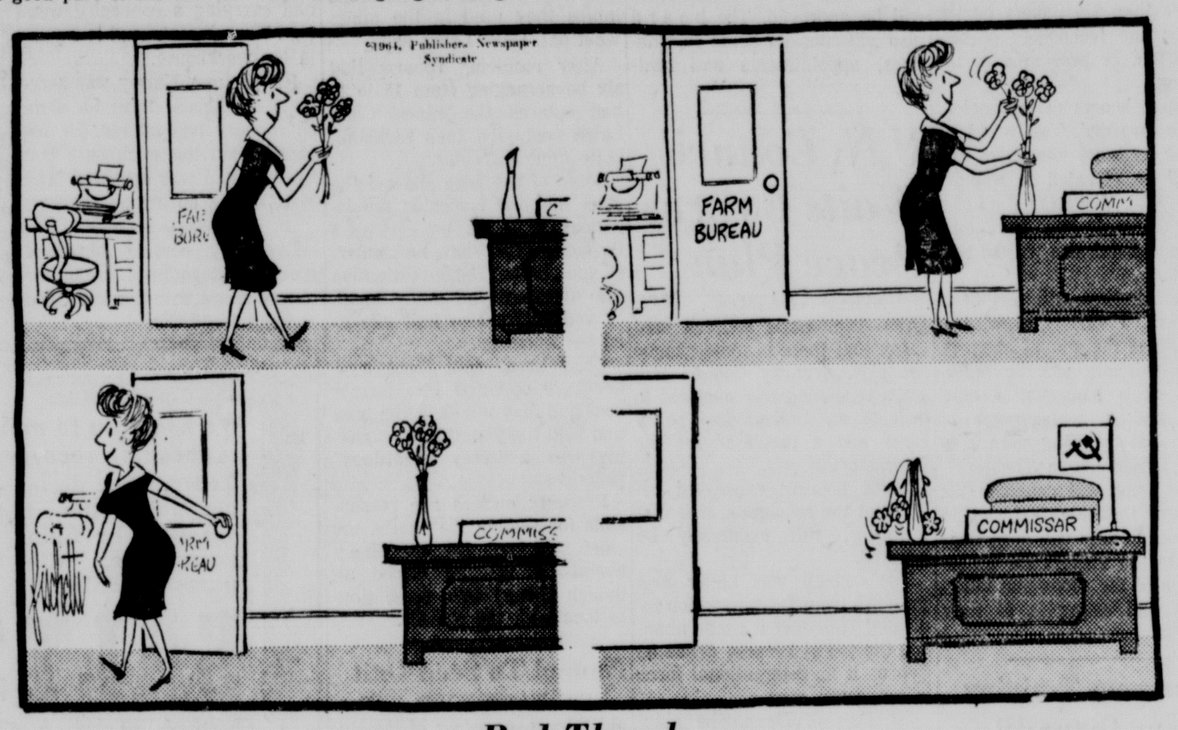
This, in the long run, should tend to make funds for loan purposes more plentiful, and, for a time at least, it could be that interest rates will not rise as has often been predicted because of the extra supply of money from the tax cut.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON, in the remarks he made when he signed the new tax law, spoke of the reduction in taxes to be given to businesses throughout the country, and said:

"Companies can now pay more of their earnings to those who own their stock and increase their investment—which, in turn, will benefit the whole economy."

There is something else to be considered. Large corporations will pay out in taxes during 1964 more than they normally would. This is because they have been required to accelerate payments in order to enable the government to collect taxes on a "pay-as-you-go" basis. While the objective is commendable, the fact is that corporations will not get the full benefit of the tax cut until 1971.

It will be several months before a retrospective analysis will give all the facts, but certainly the instinct toward frugality has not disappeared from the American scene and much of the anticipated "spending boom" may not materialize.



Red Thumb

We Don't Scare Them Much

The most ominous threat William C. Foster could make in breaking off deadlocked disarmament discussions in Geneva was to say the United States will continue to build its defenses, in the absence of agreement to control the arms race.

This doesn't sound very ominous to the Soviet Union, or any other nation on earth. They know something the United States never admits to itself.

This country will not attack them. They know it will not even counterattack unless pushed to the wall.

Knowing this, they know something else of critical importance — that the United States cannot prepare armament for a spceific project. It builds its defenses at random, hoping it may end up with enough of everything to cover every eventuality.

But its militarists and military procurement experts never sit down together to prepare a master plan of offense against a specific enemy, knowing how many offensive weapons would be required to carry out a preconceived battle plan. This kind of buildup is the perogative of nations that believe in war as an instrument of national policy.

It enabled the German Reich to build the planes and mobile weapons required to knock over France. It enabled Japan to build a naval and air fleet to wage war against the United States. It enabled the sawdust Caesar Mussolini to get ready for a specific campaign in his "Mare Nostrum."

Preparing to launch aggressive war against a predetermined enemy is not a prerogative of the United States. Even in relation to a possible war against the Soviet Union, it cannot be done.

The United States must guess what Russian militarists might do and try to offset every possibility.

Soviets Dictated Wheat Shipment Deal

By VICTOR RIESEL

The untold inside story of the wheat shipping crisis reveals that high Department of Commerce officials allowed themselves to be browbeaten by the Soviet government into permitting U.S.S.R. purchasing missions to set U.S. foreign trade and transportation policies.

Victor Riesel

The story begins at an unreported conference early last October in the Oval Room office of the late President Kennedy. With him were Secretary of State Rusk, Commerce Secretary Hodges, Assistant Secretary of Labor James Reynolds and a captain representing the U.S. Maritime Administration. They discussed the wheat deal and its shipping problems.

At one point, when someone said there just would not be enough American ships to carry the grain to the Soviet bloc ports, Mr. Kennedy replied: Well, let's see. He then began listing American vessels on a long yellow pad.

IT'S IMPORTANT to note that one of the ships he listed was the 100,000 ton super tanker, SS Manhattan.

When he completed listing the available U.S. craft—with the advice of the captain from the Maritime Administration, a section of the Commerce Department—Mr. Kennedy said: We obviously have enough carriers of our own to ship the wheat.

Not long after this meeting he asked Jim Reynolds to telephone Anthony Scotto, International Longshoremen's Association vice president; Paul Hall, Seafarers' International Union chief, and Joe Curran, head of the National Maritime Union, and to advise them that Mr. Kennedy would go on the air in a few hours and announce the wheat deal with the Soviets. The president wanted the labor leaders to be among the first to know of his decision.

On Oct. 9 President Kennedy said that the wheat would be "carried in available American ships, supplemented by ships of other countries as required."

The waterfront union leaders agreed to break their boycott of Soviet bloc shipments because the late President asked them to do so in the national interest and with the absolute understanding that all surplus grain—not just wheat—would be offered first to U.S. shippers.

THIS MEANT the bulk of the cargoes would be carried by American craft—and a small amount in foreign flag vessels. Thus, the American shippers and their employes would have been handling far more than the mere 50 per cent now demanded by waterfront labor.

This was corroborated on Oct. 11 by a document little known to the public. It is Current Export Bulletin No. 881 of the Department of Commerce. It said, in effect, that all grain should be shipped in American freighters and tankers and no such cargo was to be loaded on a foreign flag vessel without prior Department of Commerce permission.

Specifically mentioned, in addition to wheat and wheat flour, were barley, corn, sorghums, oats, rye, cotton, tobacco and vegetable oil. There was simply no reference to a 50-50 cut with foreign shippers.

There was fairly smooth sailing until Nov. 13. Then came Current Export Bulletin No. 883. This announcement suddenly referred to a 50-50 share of wheat and wheat flour shipping with foreign flag craft. No 883 also, for all practical purposes, put the other commodities in the holds of foreign shippers.

THIS BULLETIN started the uproar. American shippers and waterfront union leaders were furious and began to talk seriously of boycott action on the docks. Then they discovered that they were getting far less of the business than 50 per cent. They were getting only 38 per cent and were not even sure of that tonnage in the future.

This meant the loss of thousands of potential jobs for U.S. merchant seamen. The U.S. was not only losing the wheat cargo business but the grain shipments as well.

One company, for example, has sold 200,000 tons of corn to Hungary and shipped it all in foreign flag freighters. Another sale was made of 50,000 tons of rice to the Soviets. Some 40,000 tons of it already have been earmarked for foreign fleets.

With peppery Thomas (Teddy) Gleason, longshoremen president, as their spokesman, the waterfront unions blew their stacks. They launched the boycott.

THEN CAME a series of secret parleys between Department of Labor officials and union chiefs. At one of those conferences a government spokesman disclosed that the Russians had taken certain ships—including the huge tanker Manhattan—off the list of available American ships drawn up by Mr. Kennedy in October.

The Soviets simply said they would not permit them into their harbors. They threatened to kill the entire wheat deal if the United States did not go along and permit the foreign flag ships to carry the bulk of the cargo.

They bluffed. Their bluff was not called. The Commerce Department capitulated and reversed the other branches of government though it knew the Soviets needed the wheat and other grains and were simply trying to save some money on the deal, befriend other nations and humiliate the U.S.

Fight 'Em, Pisanos

Pisa, Italy, is asking the Italian government to give it enough "federal aid" to keep the world-famous "leaning tower of Pisa" from leaning too far and falling down. That would be a catastrophe.

In the United States the structure would have been smashed with an iron ball and hauled to the rubble heap 700 years ago. The architect who designed it would have been cashiered, the construction company would have been investigated by the Pisa City Council and the area declared the site of urban decay and marked for rehabilitation.

The city walls that tourists gawk at would have been bulldozed into parking lot contour and plastered with black top for a Pisa parking lot. The cathedral, baptistery and other ancient structures would have been forced to give way to glass and metal boxes with ceilings of acoustical tile and composition floors guaranteed to deaden noise and be easy on the feet.

Here in the United States everything must be up to snuff by George. If a building is not paying its way, down it must go. If and when there is an appetite for quaintness, it can be reproduced a la Disneyland. Everything that isn't in the planner's sketch must be leveled, plowed under, blown up, knocked down, bridged over, undercut, or made to look modern, even if it ends up looking ridiculous.

Those crazy Pisanos! Imagine, sentimentalizing about a silly tower that should have been condemned in the 13th century, long before Italians dreamed there would be a land across the Wide Waters where everything more than 50 years old would be a drag on Progress.

Plastered

By Truman Twill

While the veterinarian was making the plaster cast in connection with the latest mishap to a Twillery dog, he told the lady I pay veterinary bills with that he supposed he would be reading about the mishap in the paper.

What else could be more important right now than a brute of a dog with a foreleg encased in 10 pounds of plaster? It's like living with a kid who has been given a ball bat and forbidden to go outside.

Veterinarians who put plaster casts on dogs admonish owners to keep the patients confined and, above all, to keep the cast dry. How this is to be done when the dogs live in the country is not explained.

WE EVEN TAPED on a rubber receptacle that fitted over the end of the thing, to act like an overshoe. What it really acted like was a nonskid tip.

Instead of conceding that his front leg was in a plaster cast and therefore of limited usefulness, the mutt went on a pole-vaulting spree. He was in and out of every snowdrift in romping distance.

The instructions were to keep him on a leash to prevent such nonsense. But aside from the fact he's bigger than the lady I don't walk dogs on leashes with, he is unaccustomed to a collar, because country dogs cannot wear tight collars and he has left all the loose ones hanging on brush piles and barbed wire fences. And he never saw a bed pan.

The mutt's mishap, a broken toe, speeded him up and didn't slow him down, which is a peculiarity of Twillery dogs.

HIS PLASTER cast went up to his waist. The orders were strict—DO NOT LET IT GET WET. So what happened?

The first time he was let out of sight, he jumped into the creek. That was where he was found—standing in the creek, with his cast full of water, unable to move.

His shattered leg mended, thanks to good care, and in all probability the broken toe will mend, too. But both dogs would have had to be destroyed at one time. As it is, they can live, be loved and written about.

It's the same as the story about people. Millions who would have died a few years ago now are saved by the healing arts.

It costs money, but who says the money isn't well-spent? Surely not the beneficiaries of the spending.

If you see an albino German shepherd stumping your way in a plaster cast and an overshoe, get up on a chair. Get up on a stepladder. Better yet, run!

GRIN AND BEAR IT — By George Lichty

Human Transplants

By Joseph R. Hixson

NEW YORK

Now that everybody had hailed the wonders of grafting human kidneys, spleens, livers, lungs and hearts, doctors are beginning to wonder what sort of genie they have let out of the medicine bottle.

One of the most respected medical journals in the country ran a pessimistic six-page editorial recently that questions virtually every facet of organ transplantation.

The editorial was written by Dr. J. Russell Elkinton, professor of medicine at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine and editor of "Annals of Internal Medicine." It comes as no surprise to anyone who attended the conference on transplants that attracted over 700 doctors recently in New York City.

During the final sessions of that three-day meeting a number of misgivings were voiced from the floor by doctors who were uneasy over lung, liver and heart transplants which surgeons know in advance are doomed to medical failure and have their principal value as "research.

Dr. Elkinton says, in essence, that doctors are not yet ready and may never be ready to cope with the moral and medical issues raised when corpses —like World War II Jeeps— are "cannibalized" for spare parts.

He notes that removal of a kidney from a healthy donor may cost the giver 25 to 30 years of life if the opposite kidney becomes diseased, whereas at present, the recipient stands to gain, at best, 25 to 30 months of life.

The man who has performed more kidney transplants more successfully than any other spoke to reporters at the transplant conference in the same vain.

"Our basic job as doctors is to prevent disability, not encourage it, said Boston's Dr. Joseph E. Murray. I for one am not entirely comfortable about removing a sound organ from a healthy person. Whenever we can, we try to graft what we call a 'free' kidney, one that is not itself diseased but which has to be removed from a patient to help overcome a disease."

In his editorial, Dr. Elkinton wonders whether, despite doctors' advance cautions and deprecations, patients and their families don't frequently expect the graft to restore normal life for prolonged periods. Doctors today consider a kidney transplant "successful" if it functions for one year.

At the conference on organ grafting this reporter was told "off the record" that no plastic heart valves have functioned for more than three years. And the body's defenses don't attack the plastic the way the immune system peppers a kidney or other organ with antibodies. The new drugs can perform wonders in suppressing the body's immune defenses but that leaves the patient a ready prey for infection.

Through The Years

THIRTY YEARS AGO—Plans were outlined for a new Grange Hall at a meeting of the Fairview Grange 446 in Pughtown.

Miss Eleanor Herron and Miss Neva Gibson of New Cumberland accepted positions with the Hancock County Extension Office on a 4-H survey project.

The Gerald Elliott family of Hammondsville moved to Martins Ferry where Mr. Elliott accepted a position.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — Fourth War Bond sales for the East Liverpool Mothers' Club amounted to $1,950.

Mrs. Kathryn Hall was received as a new member of the MHS Club at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Black of Mulberry St.

Frank M. Fisher, a St. Clair Township farmer, announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for a third term as county commissioner.

TEN YEARS AGO — Jack Burgess of Pope Ave., a senior, was one of two students selected to represent the University of Cincinnati at the American Powers spring conference in Chicago.

William Moll was elected and Mrs. William H. Silverman was re-elected to the executive committee of the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

Lincoln School finished its season with a perfect mark of 11 games, to capture the 1954 Grade School Basketball League championship.

Instead of conceding that his front leg was in a plaster cast and therefore of limited usefulness, the mutt went on a pole-vaulting spree. He was in and out of every snowdrift in romping distance.

The instructions were to keep him on a leash to prevent such nonsense. But aside from the fact he's bigger than the lady I don't walk dogs on leashes with, he is unaccustomed to a collar, because country dogs cannot wear tight collars and he has left all the loose ones hanging on brush piles and barbed wire fences. And he never saw a bed pan.

The mutt's mishap, a broken toe, speeded him up and didn't slow him down, which is a peculiarity of Twillery dogs.

HIS PLASTER cast went up to his waist. The orders were strict—DO NOT LET IT GET WET. So what happened?

The first time he was let out of sight, he jumped into the creek. That was where he was found—standing in the creek, with his cast full of water, unable to move.

His shattered leg mended, thanks to good care, and in all probability the broken toe will mend, too. But both dogs would have had to be destroyed at one time. As it is, they can live, be loved and written about.

It's the same as the story about people. Millions who would have died a few years ago now are saved by the healing arts.

It costs money, but who says the money isn't well-spent? Surely not the beneficiaries of the spending.

If you see an albino German shepherd stumping your way in a plaster cast and an overshoe, get up on a chair. Get up on a stepladder. Better yet, run!

Tax Cut May Be Dubious Windfall

By DAVID LAWRENCE

The big news today is that the personal tax cut, amounting to approximately $6 billion this year, is at last a reality. Does this mean that the people will promptly go on a "spending spree" and pay out all that money?

David Lawrence

The national economy is so big that it will be a long time before statistics are available telling just what people will have done with their tax cut.

President Johnson himself, however, used the word "frugality" not long ago in talking to the nation, and it is just conceivable that the American people may decide to be "frugal" with a good part of the tax cut they will get. The dictionary defines a frugal person as one who is "not wasteful" and who doesn't "spend freely or unnecessarily."

The theory that every time there is a tax cut the taxpayers will immediately spend all of it and will not give any thought to saving isn't one that can be applied to everybody.

Private debt, for example, at the moment is the biggest in history. Many people owe money on various items they have bought on the installment plan and some are behind in their payments, either because of unemployment or high medical expenses or other misfortunes.

Much of the money obtained through the tax cut can, therefore, result in payment of debt. There are lots of people, too, who are trying to "save up for a rainy day." There are children who will be going to college next year, and there will be other expected expenditures for the future which will cause the family to put aside the extra money obtained from the tax cut.

THUS, IT ISN'T certain that all the extra money will actually be spent. Saving is an important characteristic of many citizens. Lots of people will invest their money in savings bonds, or put their funds in savings banks where they can draw interest. Many an individual who has faced hardships in the past and gets some extra money isn't inclined to spend it right away on luxuries.

The best available statistic on past years indicate that spending in the United States usually amounts to somewhere between 92 and 94 per cent of the income, and this is equivalent to about two-thirds of the gross national product.

There is no way of knowing at this time just how much of the money will be used to pay off notes or accumulated bills of the past. Many people are in financial difficulties.

In the year ending June 30, 1964, for instance, an estimated 157,000 persons will have filed as bankrupts. This is more than three times the number in 1955, although personal income is the highest on record and is steadily rising.

Many families spend all their income and borrow on future incomes and then get into difficulties if they have high medical expenses or if other emergencies develop.

Millions of citizens will average between $3 and $5 a week in extra money through the tax cut. This will come in handy in many homes, but the extent to which it will be used to relieve past indebtedness is certainly going to be a factor in determining the extent of the spending in the expected business boom.

THE NEWS headlines refer to an $11.5-billion tax cut," but this doesn't happen all in one year, and includes corporations. For the year 1964, the cut in personal taxes amounts to $6.1 billion. In a national economy in which the gross national product is being projected for this year as rising considerably from last year's total of $585 billion, it cannot be anticipated just what the impact of the $6.1 billion will be on the whole business situation.

If a large portion of it is saved instead of spent, or if much of it goes for the payment of past indebtedness, there is a question as to just how much stimulus to business will result from the 1964 tax cut.

The middle and low-income groups, with incomes under $10,000 a year, will get about $3.6 billion of the 1964 cut — 60 per cent of the total. There will be a temptation among these groups to spend the money for immediate necessities.

In the higher brackets — the people who do most of the saving — it seems plausible to assume that much of the $2.5 billion in reduced taxes will be invested in securities or saved in other forms.

This, in the long run, should tend to make funds for loan purposes more plentiful, and, for a time at least, it could be that interest rates will not rise as has often been predicted because of the extra supply of money from the tax cut.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON, in the remarks he made when he signed the new tax law, spoke of the reduction in taxes to be given to businesses throughout the country, and said:

"Companies can now pay more of their earnings to those who own their stock and increase their investment—which, in turn, will benefit the whole economy."

There is something else to be considered. Large corporations will pay out in taxes during 1964 more than they normally would. This is because they have been required to accelerate payments in order to enable the government to collect taxes on a "pay-as-you-go" basis. While the objective is commendable, the fact is that corporations will not get the full benefit of the tax cut until 1971.

It will be several months before a retrospective analysis will give all the facts, but certainly the instinct toward frugality has not disappeared from the American scene and much of the anticipated "spending boom" may not materialize.

Soviets Dictated Wheat Shipment Deal

By VICTOR RIESEL

The untold inside story of the wheat shipping crisis reveals that high Department of Commerce officials allowed themselves to be browbeaten by the Soviet government into permitting U.S.S.R. purchasing missions to set U.S. foreign trade and transportation policies.

Victor Riesel

The story begins at an unreported conference early last October in the Oval Room office of the late President Kennedy. With him were Secretary of State Rusk, Commerce Secretary Hodges, Assistant Secretary of Labor James Reynolds and a captain representing the U.S. Maritime Administration. They discussed the wheat deal and its shipping problems.

At one point, when someone said there just would not be enough American ships to carry the grain to the Soviet bloc ports, Mr. Kennedy replied: Well, let's see. He then began listing American vessels on a long yellow pad.

IT'S IMPORTANT to note that one of the ships he listed was the 100,000 ton super tanker, SS Manhattan.

When he completed listing the available U.S. craft—with the advice of the captain from the Maritime Administration, a section of the Commerce Department—Mr. Kennedy said: We obviously have enough carriers of our own to ship the wheat.

Not long after this meeting he asked Jim Reynolds to telephone Anthony Scotto, International Longshoremen's Association vice president; Paul Hall, Seafarers' International Union chief, and Joe Curran, head of the National Maritime Union, and to advise them that Mr. Kennedy would go on the air in a few hours and announce the wheat deal with the Soviets. The president wanted the labor leaders to be among the first to know of his decision.

On Oct. 9 President Kennedy said that the wheat would be "carried in available American ships, supplemented by ships of other countries as required."

The waterfront union leaders agreed to break their boycott of Soviet bloc shipments because the late President asked them to do so in the national interest and with the absolute understanding that all surplus grain—not just wheat—would be offered first to U.S. shippers.

THIS MEANT the bulk of the cargoes would be carried by American craft—and a small amount in foreign flag vessels. Thus, the American shippers and their employes would have been handling far more than the mere 50 per cent now demanded by waterfront labor.

This was corroborated on Oct. 11 by a document little known to the public. It is Current Export Bulletin No. 881 of the Department of Commerce. It said, in effect, that all grain should be shipped in American freighters and tankers and no such cargo was to be loaded on a foreign flag vessel without prior Department of Commerce permission.

Specifically mentioned, in addition to wheat and wheat flour, were barley, corn, sorghums, oats, rye, cotton, tobacco and vegetable oil. There was simply no reference to a 50-50 cut with foreign shippers.

There was fairly smooth sailing until Nov. 13. Then came Current Export Bulletin No. 883. This announcement suddenly referred to a 50-50 share of wheat and wheat flour shipping with foreign flag craft. No 883 also, for all practical purposes, put the other commodities in the holds of foreign shippers.

THIS BULLETIN started the uproar. American shippers and waterfront union leaders were furious and began to talk seriously of boycott action on the docks. Then they discovered that they were getting far less of the business than 50 per cent. They were getting only 38 per cent and were not even sure of that tonnage in the future.

This meant the loss of thousands of potential jobs for U.S. merchant seamen. The U.S. was not only losing the wheat cargo business but the grain shipments as well.

One company, for example, has sold 200,000 tons of corn to Hungary and shipped it all in foreign flag freighters. Another sale was made of 50,000 tons of rice to the Soviets. Some 40,000 tons of it already have been earmarked for foreign fleets.

With peppery Thomas (Teddy) Gleason, longshoremen president, as their spokesman, the waterfront unions blew their stacks. They launched the boycott.

THEN CAME a series of secret parleys between Department of Labor officials and union chiefs. At one of those conferences a government spokesman disclosed that the Russians had taken certain ships—including the huge tanker Manhattan—off the list of available American ships drawn up by Mr. Kennedy in October.

The Soviets simply said they would not permit them into their harbors. They threatened to kill the entire wheat deal if the United States did not go along and permit the foreign flag ships to carry the bulk of the cargo.

They bluffed. Their bluff was not called. The Commerce Department capitulated and reversed the other branches of government though it knew the Soviets needed the wheat and other grains and were simply trying to save some money on the deal, befriend other nations and humiliate the U.S.

Human Transplants

By Joseph R. Hixson

NEW YORK

Now that everybody had hailed the wonders of grafting human kidneys, spleens, livers, lungs and hearts, doctors are beginning to wonder what sort of genie they have let out of the medicine bottle.

One of the most respected medical journals in the country ran a pessimistic six-page editorial recently that questions virtually every facet of organ transplantation.

The editorial was written by Dr. J. Russell Elkinton, professor of medicine at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine and editor of "Annals of Internal Medicine." It comes as no surprise to anyone who attended the conference on transplants that attracted over 700 doctors recently in New York City.

During the final sessions of that three-day meeting a number of misgivings were voiced from the floor by doctors who were uneasy over lung, liver and heart transplants which surgeons know in advance are doomed to medical failure and have their principal value as "research.

Dr. Elkinton says, in essence, that doctors are not yet ready and may never be ready to cope with the moral and medical issues raised when corpses —like World War II Jeeps— are "cannibalized" for spare parts.

He notes that removal of a kidney from a healthy donor may cost the giver 25 to 30 years of life if the opposite kidney becomes diseased, whereas at present, the recipient stands to gain, at best, 25 to 30 months of life.

The man who has performed more kidney transplants more successfully than any other spoke to reporters at the transplant conference in the same vain.

"Our basic job as doctors is to prevent disability, not encourage it, said Boston's Dr. Joseph E. Murray. I for one am not entirely comfortable about removing a sound organ from a healthy person. Whenever we can, we try to graft what we call a 'free' kidney, one that is not itself diseased but which has to be removed from a patient to help overcome a disease."

In his editorial, Dr. Elkinton wonders whether, despite doctors' advance cautions and deprecations, patients and their families don't frequently expect the graft to restore normal life for prolonged periods. Doctors today consider a kidney transplant "successful" if it functions for one year.

At the conference on organ grafting this reporter was told "off the record" that no plastic heart valves have functioned for more than three years. And the body's defenses don't attack the plastic the way the immune system peppers a kidney or other organ with antibodies. The new drugs can perform wonders in suppressing the body's immune defenses but that leaves the patient a ready prey for infection.

'Shop-In' Latest Weapon Used By Rights Groups

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Shopping baskets piled high with unpaid-for groceries are the newest weapon in use by civil rights demonstrators—the "shop-in."

Results: A falloff in business at supermarkets because demonstrators monopolize carts and jam checkout lines; a falling out among Negro leaders in San Francisco; growing tension among frustrated employes, angry shoppers and determined demonstrators.

In the shop-in, demonstrators enter a store, fill shopping carts with groceries, wheel them to the counter, have them checked out—then say they can't pay and leave the sacks and boxes piled in front of clerks.

Members of the congress of Racial Equality began the tactic last week at supermarkets of Lucky Stores, Inc., in San Francisco, at Berkeley, home of the University of California, and at Palo Alto to the south, adjacent to Stanford University.

They contend Lucky didn't fulfill an agreement to hire additional Negroes. Lucky flatly denied it, pointed to its Negro employes and said it would have no part of "reverse discrimination."

Tuesday, the largest Negro group in San Francisco, the Baptist Ministers Union said it would sever its ties with CORE if the shop-ins didn't stop.

"CORE has a right to picket, but if it continues to use this tactic, we just can't go along," said the Rev. George L. Bedford, head of the group representing 40,000 of the city's 85,000 Negroes.

The Bay Area Independent, a Negro weekly newspaper, called the maneuver a "malicious idea, highly doubtful" whether it "won much sympathy from either the Negro or white community."

On Wednesday, CORE called off the shop-ins "at least for the time being," but continued picketing.

Ohio Bell's Earnings Up During 1963

Ohio Bell earnings in 1963 improved one cent per share as its services were used more often by more people than ever before, according to the phone company's annual report issued today.

Frederick R. Eckley, Ohio Bell president, said both revenues and expenses reached record highs in 1963.

Revenues increased $16,481,000 but expenses, including taxes, increased $13,854,000 over 1962, leaving $2,627,000 of increased net income. With the increase in capital required for new construction, earnings per share last year amounted to $1.81, compared to $1.80 in 1962.

Over the past five years and despite rising costs, local telephone rates — already among the lowest in the country—have not changed and long distance rates have been reduced on several occasions, he said. During the same period, Ohio Bell revenues increased 20 per cent while expenses including taxes rose 23 per cent.

As a result, income available for fixed charges and dividends was up only 18.8 per cent over 1959 and capital invested in the business increased 24.4 per cent, resulting in a rate of return in the past five years well below the level contemplated by the PUCO at the time of the last rate adjustment, he said.

Eckley said the reduction in corporate federal income tax from 52 to 50 per cent this year, and to 48 per cent next year will improve Ohio Bell's earnings picture, but still leave it below the level stated in the commission's order, it will, however, permit the acceleration of some service improvement projects.

Highlights for the telephone company in 1963 included: a gain of 104,500 telephones last year; plant investment per telephone climbed to $320, compared with $283 five years ago; a new labor contract, with an annual added cost to Ohio Bell of $8 million was signed with the Communication Workers of America.

Construction last year totaled more than $90 million, some $3 million more than the previous all-time high in 1962. (This year Ohio Bell will invest $92,300,000 for home and industry), and local calling areas were extended in 12 localities for some 900,000 customers.

The annual report strongly endorses the state's program to attract new industry which emphasizes the favorable economic climate that exists in Ohio.

Keeping pace with the population growth continues to be a major undertaking for Ohio Bell. The company's three-millionth telephone was installed last week in Middletown, representing an increase of a million phones in the last decade.

Further telephone refinements, unknown a few years ago, are on the horizon. New equipment is being installed in parts of Cleveland to enable people to dial collect, person and credit card long distance calls as well as standard station-to-station calls.

Touch-Tone telephones, featuring pushbuttons instead of dials, will be offered in 14 Ohio localities this year.

Board OKs Fund Shift To Meet School Payment

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Controlling Board has approved a transfer of $506,000 from future allocations to meet the quarterly school foundation payment. But at the same time the board has gone on record against such transfers in the future.

The board adopted a resolution late Thursday that said in part that future foundation payments will be met when due "within said foundation appropriations."

This was an apparent directive for the State School Board and State Education Department to live within their appropriations rather than run up deficiencies that the legislature would have to make up.

The transfer was approved so the $66.2 million payment due this month could be released on time. It was made from allocations for the next three months of the current quarter at the request of the Education Department.

Subsidies included nearly $46.2 million for school districts, $17.3 million for teacher and public school employes retirement systems and $2.7 million for the 88 county boards of education.

Under the complicated foundation program, the state guarantees a minimum level of public school education for more than 2 million pupils.

Total two-year school appropriations aggregated $510.5 million. Actual school costs for the previous biennium were about $467.7 million.

Board members also reported the release of an extra $100,061 for expanded Youth Commission services.

Commission officials noted that the Boys Industrial School at Lancaster, Delaware Industrial School for girls and other institutions—built to accomodate 1,479—now have 2,028 inmates.

Population totals listed were: Lancaster 1,030, Delaware 350, Juvenile Diagnostic Center 342, Training Institute of Central Ohio (TICO) 188, Zaleski Youth Camp 54, Mohican Youth Camp 49 and State Fairgrounds Youth Camp 15.

Firemen Get Hourly Raise At Midland

Midland Council Thursday night authorized a 50-cent hourly pay raise for 12 firemen in the downtown and Midland Heights departments, boosting their rate to $3 an hour during fire calls.

The increase will be effective Sunday for eight men in the borough department and four in the Heights station.

In other business, councilmen at their session at the Borough Building allocated $29,000 to the Board of Education for maintenance of the Public Library and playgrounds, continuing a policy started last year to help the board meet its budget.

Councilman Lester trainer reported the Post Office had installed an extra mail deposit box on the south side of Midland Ave., across from the Borough Building, and that a traffic count is being conducted before plans are made to go ahead with the construction of a traffic island and new traffic lanes at the 12 St. entrance to the Crucible Steel Co.

Trainer also set up a meeting of the traffic committee with the Planning Commission for Thursday evening at 7, to discuss the proposal to establish a series of one-way streets in the area East of 9th St.

Council received a reply from Crucible Steel, concerning a letter forwarded Jan. 14, on behalf of a citizens' committee. The committee had requested that the "Green Belt," a plot of land in the vicinity of Virginia Ave., which was given to the borough by Crucible, be made available for sale for construction of home sites.

Crucible, which had stipulated the land be used for a community recreation area, said it would not grant the request to use it for home sites, because it "would be defeating the purpose of the gift, and open the door to other such moves."

Council instructed the secretary, Mrs. C. K. O'Hara, to forward a letter of congratulations to Midland basketball coach, Hank Kuzma, and the team, for a successful season, and wishing them luck in the upcoming tournament.

Council also granted permsision to the Society for Crippled Children to hold its annual kick-off parade for the Easter Seal campaign March 21, and for use of the fire truck in the procession.

Final payment for $897.45 was made to the George Studen Co. work on the sewer system. R. E. Steebner, borough engineer, said that the work was completed and that final inspection was made Tuesday.

Joseph Hibbard, vice president, presided. Next regular meeting will be March 13.

THE BETRAYAL

Judas Iscariot held a position of high trust among the twelve Apostles. It was he who kept the purse and had charge of collecting the money that sustained Jesus and His followers in their travels about the countryside.

Blinded by greed, he went to the chief priests and asked them, "What are you willing to give me, and I will deliver Him to you? And they counted him out thirty pieces of silver. And from then on he was watching for an opportunity to betray Him." (Matthew XXVI: 14-16)

Although Judas had seen Christ perform many miracles and had lived with Him for three years, his faith was not strong enough to sustain him in history's most harrowing moment of temptation. 2-28

County Humane Unit Told Dog Facility About Finished

LISBON — Columbiana County commissioners Thursday advised a delegation of the County Humane Society that a building for disposal of stray dogs is about finished and should be in operation in a week or so.

Galen Greenisen, chairman of the board, told the society the 6-x-10-foot structure being erected at the dog pound at the County Home will be used for humane disposal of the strays. In the past they have been shipped to laboratories.

The society met with commissioners Jan. 27 and complained the board has been disposing of dogs illegally, and proposed the gas chamber.

A gas in the water cooling system will be used to kill the dogs and commissioners probably will hire a scavenger company to dispose of the carcasses twice a week, when in operation.

The society asked Dog Warden Russell Reichenbach of North Georgetown how long he keeps dogs at the pound after picking them up. He said if the dog has a tag he tries to locate the owner immediately, but if there is no license the dogs are held 72 hours. He requested that persons who lose their dog to call local police first and then the dog warden's office.

The society requested the dogs be held longer, but Reichenbach said the law stipulates only 72 hours.

Society members thanked the commissioners for having the gas chamber built and in operation in little over a month since their complaint.

The dog warden requested that dog license be placed on their collars, but they must still be confined. He said owners who allow their dogs to run at large will be arrested. Just because one purchases a license does not give owners permission to let dogs run at large, he reminded.

Attending yesterday's meeting were county commissioners, A. H. Fultz, county humane officer, Judge Joel H. Sharp, Miss Katherine Gibson, Mrs. George Perrault and Mrs. R. K. Zimmerman, all of Salem, and Reichenbach.

During this 20th century, there have been seven Republican and five Democratic presidents.

Paris, France

Regardless of the competitive situation among major cities of the world for the coveted title of "fashion center of the world", Paris still is the undisputed capital.

During the past few days we have seen first-hand the wonders of Paris . . . her unique salons and her unparalleled designers. Our stay in this beautiful city with its majestic boulevards, intimate cafes and millions of inhabitants and visitors was highlighted by outstanding showings of creative fashions that have kept Paris in the fashions spotlight year after year.

Tonight we leave for home. We will carry home with us memories of the wonderful cities we have visited and the once-in-a-lifetime opportunity we have had to see world-renounced designers at work and to see the end result of their creativity. It has been an exciting experience that will not soon be forgotten, but it will be good to come home.

Paris, France

Regardless of the competitive situation among major cities of the world for the coveted title of "fashion center of the world", Paris still is the undisputed capital.

During the past few days we have seen first-hand the wonders of Paris . . . her unique salons and her unparalleled designers. Our stay in this beautiful city with its majestic boulevards, intimate cafes and millions of inhabitants and visitors was highlighted by outstanding showings of creative fashions that have kept Paris in the fashions spotlight year after year.

Tonight we leave for home. We will carry home with us memories of the wonderful cities we have visited and the once-in-a-lifetime opportunity we have had to see world-renowned designers at work and to see the end result of their creativity. It has been an exciting experience that will not soon be forgotten, but it will be good to come home.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

DEAR HELOISE: Have you been wondering what to do with your old jars and tubes of foundation make-up now that one-step - matte - finish make - up is available?

I take a jar, tube or bottle of any foundation cream, add to it a proportionate amount of my favorite face powder, mixing well until entirely absorbed. The cream will absorb more than you would imagine and still remain creamy.

This mixture can be applied to the face very neatly and works as well as any matte-makeup I have ever tried.

Do try this, Heloise. It is a tremendous money saver for women.

JUDITH TOHLERS.

-:-

Well . . .

Now, I've tried everything!

When this hint came in three months ago, I mixed some of my old face powder with my favorite face cream. I kept adding powder and powder and powder.

I was amazed at how much powder the cream absorbed. It makes a beautiful creamy texture. After 12 weeks it still has not dried out. It's great!

This started me thinking: I like to use cake-type make-up with a rubber sponge, so I decided to do some experimenting.

I poured some rubbing alcohol in a small bottle and then added powder. I shook the bottle until it became a nice lotion. I poured some of this in a little bottle and now I carry it in my purse. When I need a touch-up I don't have to find a water faucet to wet my sponge.

Since rubbing alcohol is a disinfectant, it can't hurt you unless you are allergic to it. My skin is oily anyway, and it's wonderful for me.

You might try making up a "wee batch" of powder with your favorite brand of cream or mix some with a bit of alcohol and see if you like it. Try a tiny amount first.

I cannot thank Judith enough. I'm most pleased not only to have saved a whole box of expensive powder, but to have learned how to make my own specific color foundation, too. Bless you Judith. You're great!

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: If you spill household bleach on black material, you can cover this over with a child's black crayon. Color the spot (or spots) and then iron the material between two sheets of facial tissue.

Be sure to put a piece of paper over and under the material so that you will not get crayon on your ironing board or on your iron.

IDA CAULKINS.

DEAR HELOISE: I keep a mixture of vinegar and salt solution in an old spray type plastic container for squirting on the bottom of my copper pots and pans.

In a flash all it takes is a squirt from the bottle on the bottom of the pan, a quick rub with your rag or a soap-filled pad, and the pan becomes shiny immediately. Wash as usual.

If you cut the top off a washed milk carton and put the "scraps" from-the-table in the carton, the you have a container-of-food all ready for your dog's next meal and no container to wash. The carton may be thrown away after your doggie "dines."

Ohio BUC Granted $348,055 In U.S. Contingency Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio's Bureau of Unemployment Compensation has been granted an additional $384,055 in federal contingency funds, but Bureau Administrator Willard P. Dudley says he is still about $150,000 short of what he urgently needs.

Dudley had requested that a $1,111,063 cutback in administrative funds for the current fiscal year to be restored. The $150,000 sum, he said Thursday, is what he needed to maintain reasonably normal service for the balance of this fiscal year.

However, he said, the $384,055 in contingency funds will allow the bureau to operate with its present staff level. Earlier this year the bureau dismissed 423 of its part-time employes and closed 18 part-time offices, citing the federal cutback as the reason.

The Bureau of Employment Security's office in Washington said Thursday that there was no justification for requests from Dudley for additional allocations for regular BUC operations. The federal agency said Ohio's $1,111,063 cutback was in line with an across-the-board cut for all states because of reduced federal funds for the current fiscal year.

The federal agency also said that no changes were made in the base budget for Ohio, but Dudley said the agency was "hanging its hat on a technicality" by making that statement.

The Ohio buc chief said $74,000 has been recovered through a correction of the base budget made this month by federal officials.

Most Teachers Like 'Mr. Novak' Image

Teachers around the country have some reservations about TV's "Mr. Novak," but generally seem to agree that the series has improved their public image. "At least in this show the teacher no longer is portrayed as an Ichabod Crane type," says Prof. Lawrence E. Vredevoe of the University of California at Los Angeles.

Hal Humphrey

Prof. Vredevoe has worked with the National Education Association's new information center here. It was formed primarily to assist producer E. Jack Neuman after he launched "Mr. Novak" last fall.

-:-

"WE DO NOT write the shows, just advise," Vredevoe explains. "For example, in his first show Mr. Neuman had a high school of 2,000 students and 15 teachers, hardly a realistic ratio.

"Also, we pointed out that a teacher would not grab at a student, as happened in one episode. And there were other things, most of them small and technical."

What Vredevoe and his colleagues like about "Mr. Novak" is that it more accurately depicts the problems faced by teacher. In his opinion, it's the first time someone has genuinely tried to make teachers look human.

"For me, 'Mr. Peepers' and that principal in 'Our Miss Brooks' were too pantywaist," Vredevoe opines.

-:-

THE STUDENT population at Mr. Novak's Jefferson High is more comprehensive and typical than Hollywood usually portrays, too, Vredevoe points out.

"I suppose it served the purpose of the stories, but in both 'Goodby, Mr. Chips' and 'Blackboard Jungle,' the student bodies were too typed," Vredevoe adds.

In Jefferson High, producer Neuman demonstrates how the climate in which each student learns is varied from student to student. This was handled dramatically and expertly in episodes dealing with Negro integration and anti-Semitism.

Besides the NEA committee (which has a rotating membership), Neuman hires an English teacher and a high school principal as technical advisers and, he says, challenges them to criticize him as much as they will.

-:-

"NATURALLY, I have to be the final judge, but I wouldn't attempt the series without their cooperation. Besides their advice, my two teachers have come up with good ideas for stories, which we have used," Neuman reports.

As might be expected, Neuman's success with "Mr. Novak" (it is the highest rated new series of the season) already has spawned three new pilot films which are being submitted to networks for approval. One is an elementary school series, and the other two are set in high schools.

"Channing," the other school show premiering on TV (ABC) this season, has received its cancellation notice, and deservedly. Most of the shows were dramatic distortions in which the school background had little or nothing to contribute.

-:-

PROF. VREDEVOE says he would like to see more school shows on TV of the "Mr. Novak" type. Unfortunately, TV hasn't enough producers with the dedication and perseverance of a Neuman or Herbert Brodkin ("Defenders").

The speeded-up production schedules forced on most series, especially the hour ones, make it almost impossible to turn out anything above a low average.

Men like Neuman, Brodkin and one or two others overcome this TV attrition by dint of long, exhaustive hours of personal effort. Not many producers care, or even know how, to make such a sacrifice.

Their rewards, after all, are not often sufficient. Even a sense of accomplishment or "doing good" can be swiftly ended. Look at Dick Boone and his producer, Buck Houghton. The epitaph for their dramatic series this season must read, "We were done in by 'Petticoat Junction.'"

Helen Hayes 'Thinks' Tall

Heart's desire is of the spirit. Helen Hayes, the First Lady of the American Theatre, is a shining example of how one's spirit can lift the heart.

Ida Jean Kain

Just a whiff over 5 feet, she plays the part of a queen with regal bearing and such conviction that forever after we think of her as "Victoria Regina."

One time I asked this actress how she managed to create the impression of stateliness and a her lack of height. She answered: "I think tall!" "That actually helps you to feel tall?" I prodded. "Yes, but you have to be resolute about it," she confided.

—:—

RESOLUTE SHE IS, and she inspires others to pull up with the bump of self-esteem on the top of the head.

It was a joy to see Helen Hayes again when she talked recently before the Women's National Press Club. There she explained how she makes up her mind on whether to accept a part in a play. She likes the role of a character who inspires the best in people; a character who rises above obstacles and seems to be saying, "Look, I met my obligations in life to the best of my ability."

Miss Hayes came to Washington to play the lead at Catholic University's campus theatre in the heart-warming "Good Morning, Miss Dove." Miss Dove is a school teacher extraordinary whose firm desire is to instill in her students basic fine character as well as a wealth of knowledge. Her very special way of doing this is to hold up as examples the men and women who made American history great.

Most of us have had a Miss Dove in our lives. Seeing Helen Hayes as Miss Dove brings back a flood of memories which inspire us anew to stand taller. As this teacher emphasizes, we have a great heritage to live up to.

—:—

IT TAKES AN actress great in herself to transport us back to our own school days and inspire us again to meet our obligations in life to the very best of our abilities.

Helen Hayes believes people want to be told that they can do what they want to do. . .that they can be masters of their fate. She says: "We need something to live up to."

At the close of the show, she was presented with the first Diamond Jubilee Medal to be awarded in marking this year the 75th anniversary of the university. In her reply she said that it was a great privilege to work with the students in preserving and keeping great "this wonderful thing—the theatre."

In fact, Helen Hayes is the Miss Dove of the American Theatre.

Unusual Mishap Damages Truck

A Stark County company's truck was damaged in an unusual mishap just before noon Thursday in Crook Alley at E. 6th St., police reported.

The collision damaged the right door, mirror and body of a 1962 model truck owned by the Sugardale Provision Co. of Canton and operated by Durbin A. Dailey, 56, also of Canton.

Also involved was a 1956 model truck driven north in Crook Alley by Samuel L. Williams, 20, of Steubenville R. D. 1.

Williams told police as he passed the Canton truck the body of his vehicle tilted, apparently because of uneven pavement or an accumulation of ice, and struck the provision company's vehicle. Dailey told police he was preparing to pull into the traffic lane when his vehicle was hit. The mishap was timed at 11:52 a.m.

Vandals' New Twist: Boys Climb On Roofs!

A new twist in the age-old story of vandalism was reported to Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi Thursday by a householder who complained boys have been climbing on the roofs of homes in the Boring Ln.-Lisbon St. area, damaging the shingles.

The chief said he received no satisfactory explanation of how the youngsters climbed onto the roofs, but he theorized the vandalism involved one - story homes with low eaves on which the youngsters could climb via the downspouts and gutters. He said some of the properties are roofed with aluminum shingles, which are particularly susceptible to damage.

The chief warned parents they will be held responsible for damage caused by their youngsters.

FAA Official Guarded After Threat On Life

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—Najeeb Halaby, the administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency — closely guarded by five policemen after his life reportedly was threatened—said Thursday night if Oklahoma City finds sonic booms intolerable "it is intolerable for the national government as well."

Five detectives in plain clothes were assigned to Halaby while he spoke at a civic club dinner and later as he held a 15-minute news conference.

He came to Oklahoma City to discuss a six-month sonic boom test which the FAA began Feb. 3, and which has divided city residents into two groups—the furious and the curious.

The City Council voted Tuesday to ask the FAA to halt the tests, but the next day it decided to hold up any action until it can decide just what it wants to say.

Stanley Draper Jr., office manager of the Chamber of Commerce, confirmed an anonymous caller threatened Halaby, and he said police were notified.

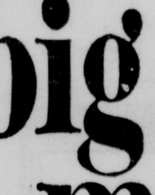
RESEARCH

Q. We hear a lot about research these days. Just what is research?

A. Webster defines research as careful, systematic, patient study and investigation in some field of knowledge, undertaken to establish facts or principles. Like most things, research is more glamorous when viewed at a distance than it is close up. Day-by-day research requires some tears, teamwork, a lot of sweat, the ability to withstand frustration, and willingness to be happy with 90 per cent failure. Research, which requires plenty of patience and a lot of wretchedly hard work, touches every phase of modern life. Seemingly unrelated things such as drugs, jet engines, cosmetics, and tax forms are all products of research in one field or another.



COLDS AND FEVER

Q. Is "feed a cold and starve a fever" good advice?

A. Better follow your doctor's suggestions. The idea of "starving" fevers goes back to the time when typhoid fever was so common. In those days many doctors "starved" typhoid fever patients. There was at least one exception. The great Irish physician, Robert James Graves (1786-1853), argued long and loud against this notion and even requested that his epitaph read: "He fed fevers."

Most Teachers Like 'Mr. Novak' Image

Teachers around the country have some reservations about TV's "Mr. Novak," but generally seem to agree that the series has improved their public image. "At least in this show the teacher no longer is portrayed as an Ichabod Crane type," says Prof. Lawrence E. Vredevoe of the University of California at Los Angeles.

Hal Humphrey

Prof. Vredevoe has worked with the National Education Association's new information center here. It was formed primarily to assist producer E. Jack Neuman after he launched "Mr. Novak" last fall.

-:-

WE DO NOT write the shows, just advise," Vredevoe explains. "For example, in his first show Mr. Neuman had a high school of 2,000 students and 15 teachers, hardly a realistic ratio.

"Also, we pointed out that a teacher would not grab at a student, as happened in one episode. And there were other things, most of them small and technical."

What Vredevoe and his colleagues like about "Mr. Novak" is that it more accurately depicts the problems faced by teacher. In his opinion, it's the first time someone has genuinely tried to make teachers look human.

"For me, 'Mr. Peepers' and that principal in 'Our Miss Brooks' were too pantywaist," Vredevoe opines.

"I suppose it served the purpose of the stories, but in both 'Goodby, Mr. Chips' and 'Blackboard Jungle,' the student bodies were too typed," Vredevoe adds.

In Jefferson High, producer Neuman demonstrates how the climate in which each student learns is varied from student to student. This was handled dramatically and expertly in episodes dealing with Negro integration and anti-Semitism.

Besides the NEA committee (which has a rotating membership), Neuman hires an English teacher and a high school principal as technical advisers and, he says, challenges them to criticize him as much as they will.

-:-

"NATURALLY, I have to be the final judge, but I wouldn't attempt the series without their cooperation. Besides their advice, my two teachers have come up with good ideas for stories, which we have used," Neuman reports.

As might be expected, Neuman's success with "Mr. Novak" (it is the highest rated new series of the season) already has spawned three new pilot films which are being submitted to networks for approval. One is an elementary school series, and the other two are set in high schools.

Unusual Mishap Damages Truck

A Stark County company's truck was damaged in an unusual mishap just before noon Thursday in Crook Alley at E. 6th St., police reported.

Chester Lions Told Service Project Scope

Sight conservation is not the only community service provided by Lions Clubs throughout the world C. E. (Ed) Queen, international counselor, told Chester club members at a meeting Thursday night at the City Park building.

Queen, of Fairmont, said that sight projects were the major service project, but that thousands of other community service works were undertaken.

He referred to specific scholarship aids, recreation development projects and other activities in towns in West Virginia.

Speaking on the theme, "Your Lions Club, You and Your Community," Queen urged club members to strive to maintain a high public image of the club in the community.

Sixteen members and seven guests attended.

Guests included Albert Logston and Oral McGown of Newell, zone chairmen; Paul Donham of Fairmont, Dick Rinestine of East Liverpool and Michael Vitellas and Paul Milby of Chester.

A joint meeting with the Chester Kiwanis Club will be held March 12. Sayre Graham, president, was in charge. Queen was introduced by Walter Jordan, member of the district governor's cabinet.

The approximate ratio of births that result in quintuplets is about one in every 54 million.

Salineville Club Set

SALINEVILLE — The Salineville Democratic Club will meet Tuesday night at 7:30 at the American Legion Hall, Clarence Raffle, president, said. Lew Sowards of Lisbon will speak.

Gosney Hits Transfer Of Road Worker

A reported transfer of a timekeeper from the Ohio Highway Department garage at Leetonia to New Philadelphia for alleged political reasons will be taken before the Ohio Bureau of Personnel, Don Gosney, Columbiana County Democratic chairman, said today.

Gosney said Ed Judge of Salem, veteran timekeeper at the Leetonia garage, the department's county facility, has been transferred to the Division 11 headquarters at New Philadelphia by the division officials.

Gosney said the move is another in a series of past transfers of Democrat personnel in a bid to have them quit. He said the post pay less than $300 a month, and the travel to and from New Philadelphia is costly.

A timekeeper at New Philadelphia was transferred to Steubenville earlier this month, he added.

Some transfers ordered by the headquarters last year were taken before the state bureau, and the men were restored to their posts, Gosney said.

"This is the same old effort by those at New Philadelphia," he commented, "and one would think that after two years, they would quit harassing the personnel."

Warrant Issued To Arrest Potter On Tax Charges

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff ordered issuance of a bench warrant for the arrest of Thomas Greathouse, Logan St. potter, who failed to appear today on a charge of violating the city income tax ordinance.

Greathouse, appearing originally on Feb. 5, was granted a continuance until this morning when he told the court he wanted an opportunity to pay the amounts allegedly due. At that time, Tax Commissioner D. G. Wilkinson told the court Greathouse owed $18 on his 1962 taxes and $22 for 1963.

Greathouse told the court he had not paid earlier because of heavy medical expenses last year.

Judge Chertoff then granted the continuance, but warned Greathouse to "be prepared to go somewhere" if the taxes were not paid.

Wilkinson's affidavit alleges that Greathouse failed to file an estimate on his 1963 earnings and made no final return on his 1962 income.

Gosney Hits Transfer Of Road Worker

A reported transfer of a timekeeper from the Ohio Highway Department garage at Leetonia to New Philadelphia for alleged political reasons will be taken before the Ohio Bureau of Personnel, Don Gosney, Columbiana County Democratic chairman, said today.

Gosney said Ed Judge of Salem, veteran timekeeper at the Leetonia garage, the department's county facility, has been transferred to the Division 11 headquarters at New Philadelphia by the division officials.

Gosney said the move is another in a series of past transfers of Democrat personnel in a bid to have them quit. He said the post pay less than $300 a month, and the travel to and from New Philadelphia is costly.

A timekeeper at New Philadelphia was transferred to Steubenville earlier this month, he added.

Some transfers ordered by the headquarters last year were taken before the state bureau, and the men were restored to their posts, Gosney said.

"This is the same old effort by those at New Philadelphia," he commented, "and one would think that after two years, they would quit harassing the personnel."

Warrant Issued To Arrest Potter On Tax Charges

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff ordered issuance of a bench warrant for the arrest of Thomas Greathouse, Logan St. potter, who failed to appear today on a charge of violating the city income tax ordinance.

Greathouse, appearing originally on Feb. 5, was granted a continuance until this morning when he told the court he wanted an opportunity to pay the amounts allegedly due. At that time, Tax Commissioner D. G. Wilkinson told the court Greathouse owed $18 on his 1962 taxes and $22 for 1963.

Greathouse told the court he had not paid earlier because of heavy medical expenses last year.

Judge Chertoff then granted the continuance, but warned Greathouse to "be prepared to go somewhere" if the taxes were not paid.

Wilkinson's affidavit alleges that Greathouse failed to file an estimate on his 1963 earnings and made no final return on his 1962 income.

Ditka Liked Beating Packers . . .

Here's a guy who played an important part in bringing the NFL crown to the Chicago Bears and was picked the league's rookie-of-the-year in 1961, but neither honor stands out as the biggest thrill in his pro career.

Big Mike Ditka, the Pitt All-American, gained his biggest pleasure in the play-for-pay game when the Bears knocked off the Green Bay Packers twice this season.

"It seemed I received a greater feeling from those two games than winning the championship," he added.

Mike was in town earlier this week as a representative for the Rawlings Sporting Goods Co. and was showing his equipment at a show sponsored locally by Burbick's.

Can the Bears repeat next year? "It will be a lot tougher this time," Mike said. He explained "when you are on top everyone is out to beat you. We weren't picked to win it last year but did. I believe the team that wins it this year will lose three of four games in the process."

Ditka hinted that even though Chicago won the NFL championship there are several players who are discontented.

The discontentment grew partially from salaries, but Mike wouldn't go into some of the other reasons.

Ditka did say he expects several trades to be made during the off season.

Asked if he was satisfied with the Bears, he splashed a grin across his round face and said "I'll tell you after I talk contract."

Mike said "Papa Bear" George Halas is a shrewd businessman. He'll let you forget about football and just about the time you have your mind on another matter he'll spring a contract on you."

Pro football is a tough racket and Mike expressed his feelings about some of the Chicago fans. "Win or lose," he said, "the fans don't treat you any differently. The Chicago fans take you for granted with the feeling that we owed them a championship."

We asked Ditka to pick an all-pro backfield and he didn't hesitate in naming Johnny Unitas of Baltimore at quarterback, Jimmy Brown of Cleveland and Jim Taylor of the Packers.

He had to stop when it came to a flanker back. "There are too many good ones," he said. But he did say "you have to include Terry Barr of the Lions and Del Shofner of the Giants."

Dial Wanted Out . . .

TURNING to the Steelers, Ditka was questioned about what the Pittsburgh club lacked. He feels the Steelers are weak in defensive backs and could use some help at the corner spots.

As far as Pittsburgh trading Buddy Dial for nothing, Mike pointed out that "Dial wanted to get out of Pittsburgh and they obliged him by letting him go. I don't know how much football Dial will play in the future because he has a bad knee. He injured the knee during a practice before the Pro Bowl game last month."

A member of the Chicago coaching staff is Chuck Mather who got his big start at Massillon and Mike feels in Mather the Bears have a hard worker who stresses good sound football."

Mike played high school football at Aliquippa and almost grew up in the shadow of Pitts Cathedral of Learning. He admitted though that at one time he had his bags packed to go to Penn State, but was thinking about going into denistry and decided on Pitt.

Ditka is called by those who have watched him in action as one of the hardest blockers in the game. When he isn't blocking he is giving the other pros trouble by grabbing a pass.

He makes his home in Chicago now and is part-owner of a bowling establishment located on the outskirts of the Windy City.

Henderson Has 'Brilliant' Team . . .

BOB HENDERSON, former Irondale athlete and son of C. P. Henderson, principal at Stanton High School, may go a long way with his tall and talented Brilliant High team.

Henderson's squad won its Sectional Class A opener Thursday night at Steubenville by defeating Tiltonsville, 78-60.

Brilliant won the Jefferson County tournament this season and last night's victory pushed its record to 22-1.

We saw the Brilliant five in action last night and Henderson has three tall cagers and a pair of clever guards to go with them. The big gun for the Blue Raiders is Steve Peaytt, a 6-5 center and all-state selection last season.

Toronto Faces Big Red In Finals

It didn't take long to realize who Steubenville Big Red's opponent would be in the Sectional Class "AA" finals Saturday night.

By halftime Thursday night Toronto had pretty well dimmed Wellsville's chances and dumped the Tigers out of the tourney in an 83-39 rout before 1,578 fans at the Community Arena in Steubenville.

—:—

BIG RED and Toronto will be matched Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Arena to decide who will advance to the District action. Steubenville has won the title five times in the last six years and is heavily favored to sweep it this time.

Wellsville, playing most of the way without the services of its star center Terry Flesch, was no match for Coach Paul Kalivoda's Red Knights who jumped off to a fast start and never let up.

—:—

FLESCH played with a badly sprained ankle. After starting the game Coach Jack McDevitt pulled his star early in the contest and he only returned for a few minutes of action in the second half. The 6-3 Flesch ended his high school career last night without scoring a point during his brief appearance but wound up averaging over 20 points per game this season.

Toronto went in front 17-5 at the first quarter mark and then had the contest almost clinched at halftime as the Knights rolled to a 43-16 advantage.

—:—

THE RED KNIGHTS reached last night's semi-final round by defeating East Liverpool while Wellsville had knocked off Steubenville Central Wednesday night. In regular season, Wellsville and Toronto had split in two games.

Toronto's one-two scoring punch which has been carrying the Kalivodamen through the season — Tom Coulter and Paul Saxton — showed up again last night with both cagers scoring 21 points.

—:—

SAXTON, the 6-2 center of the Knights and chief rebounder, has been coming on strong late in the season and in two tourney games but he will have his hands full against the towering height of Big Red Saturday night.

The red-headed Coulter flipped in 17 of his total in the first half hitting on jump shots anywhere around the front court. Bob Urich also got into the double figures with 14 points.

Substitute Lester Bennett was top man for the Tigers, finishing with 16 points, including 12 of the 23 points scored in the second half. Pat Welch added nine markers to the attack.

McDevitt's team wound up the season with an overall record of 9-11.

O'Hara Has 2nd Fastest Indoor Mile

By BOB GREEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom O'Hara was a little bit apologetic about it all. He'd just run a 3:58.5 mile, second fastest ever indoors. But then, it's understandable. He wasn't feeling too well.

And he promised to do better next time.

"I don't know what I'll do in the Chicago News Relays," O'Hara said today, looking ahead to his next indoor effort. "But I can promise you this: It'll be better than last night."

His coach, Jerry Weiland, predicted the 21-year-old Chicago Loyola student would go 3:54 or 3:55 in Chicago Friday, March 6.

Tom, who established a 3:56.6 indoor standard two weeks ago, also bettered the listed indoor 1500 meter mark en route to his full mile victory in Thursday night's Knights of Columbus Games in Madison Square Garden.

He hit the 1500 meters in 3:46.3, compared with the listed mark of 3:46.6 by Hungary's Istvan Rozsavolgyi in 1961. Jim Beatty, however, has done an unofficial 3:43.2, just under O'Hara's new standard, but did not apply for record recognition.

Bruce Kidd, 20-year-old distance star from Toronto, remained unbeaten on the Madison Square Garden boards, ripping from behind for a two-mile triumph in a meet record 8:39.

Australia's veteran Ron Clarke, who set the indoor three mile standard just a week ago, set all the early pace but was beaten by two yards by Kidd's killing kick.

Kuharich Gets 4-Year Pact With Eagles

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joe Kuharich took over as head coach of the National Football League's Philadelphia Eagles today, armed with a four-year contract and a mandate from millionaire owner Jerry Wolman to build the best team money can buy.

Wolman introduced Kuharich as his new coach at a news conference Thursday night, confirming a 24-hour-old report by The Associated Press that the 46-year-old former college and pro coach would get the job.

Kuharich succeeds Nick Skorich, fired by Wolman last month on the very day the 37-year-old contractor's $5.5 million purchase of the Eagles was approved by the league. He takes over a team that has been last in its division two straight years and in dire need of a complete overhauling.

South Side Team Chosen For Spot In Colt League

The South Side Athletic Club of Hookstown has selected the name of South Side A. C. for its team entry in the East Liverpool Colt League.

David Lyons was named manager and Albert Lyons co-manager at the meeting Tuesday.

James Ashcroft, president, announced that the cutoff dates for the leagues will be the same as in 1963—Sept. 1 for the juniors and Aug. 15 for the seniors.

A representative of the Nationwide Insurance Co. presented an insurance plan but it was decided to withhold a decision until after the player signups March 31. Each district will be responsible for signing players, and for locations. The dates will also be set by the individual districts.

The club and officers expressed appreciation to the auxiliary for a check for $572 towards the club's field and building fund. Next meeting will be March 10.

Tulane Eyes New Losing 'Record'

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Tonight is the night Tulane can set a major college basketball record as the all-time one-season bust.

The Greenies play host to Louisiana State on their home court in New Orleans in their last game of the season. If they lose their won-lost record will read 0-23.

Never before has there been such a disastrous season in major college annals. The Citadel holds the longest major losing streak with 37 set a decade ago, but the Cadets' worst one season mark against collegiate competition was 0-17 in 1955.

Oddly the last game Tulane won was against LSU in its final 1963 contest and the preparations of the Greenies to avoid a 1964 blank overshadowed Thursday night's results.

Davidson, ranked seventh nationally and the only team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action, easily won its first round game in the Southern Conference championship tourney at Charlotte. The Wildcats walloped The Citadel 91-62.

In other first round games West Virginia defeated William and Mary 85-73, Virginia Military edged Furman 77-73 and George Washington upset Virginia Tech 64-62.

Davidson opposes VMI and West Virginia meets GW in the semifinals tonight with Davidson and West Virginia favored to meet for the championship and an automatic NCAA berth Saturday night.

George Wilson and Ron Bonham accounted for all but 18 of Cincinnati's points as the Bearcats nipped Bradley, 64-62, in a Missouri Valley Conference game at Peoria. Wilson had 25 and Bonham 21 as Cincinnati improved its season mark to 15-9 and its loop record to 5-6.

Only two other Ohio teams were in action Thursday night.

Youngstown, one of the nation's top-rated small college teams, won its 22nd victory of the campaign at Geneva (Pa.), 77-53. The Penguins have lost only two games. Dave Culliver scored 22 points and Fred Jones 21 to spark their latest win.

Marshall's Big Green trounced Steubenville, 71-56, at Huntington, W. Va., rounding out the action.

Wilt Meshes 40, Gets 31 Rebounds As Warriors Win

ST. LOUIS (AP)—An unselfish Wilt Chamberlain scored 40 points and captured 31 rebounds Thursday night in leading the San Francisco Warriors to a 107-97 victory over the St. Louis Hawks in the only National Basketball Association game played.

The triumph also pushed the Warriors three games in front of the Hawks in the race for the Western Division title. Each team has 12 games to play.

"He played one of his greatest games," said Warrior Coach Alex Hannum of Chamberlain's performance against the Hawks. "It was a very unselfish game."

Hannum said Chamberlain told the rest of the Warriors to shoot just before the game started.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joe Kuharich took over as head coach of the National Football League's Philadelphia Eagles today, armed with a four-year contract and a mandate from millionaire owner Jerry Wolman to build the best team money can buy.

Wolman introduced Kuharich as his new coach at a news conference Thursday night, confirming a 24-hour-old report by The Associated Press that the 46-year-old former college and pro coach would get the job.

Kuharich succeeds Nick Skorich, fired by Wolman last month on the very day the 37-year-old contractor's $5.5 million purchase of the Eagles was approved by the league. He takes over a team that has been last in its division two straight years and in dire need of a complete overhauling.

South Side Team Chosen For Spot In Colt League

The South Side Athletic Club of Hookstown has selected the name of South Side A. C. for its team entry in the East Liverpool Colt League.

David Lyons was named manager and Albert Lyons co-manager at the meeting Tuesday.

James Ashcroft, president, announced that the cutoff dates for the leagues will be the same as in 1963—Sept. 1 for the juniors and Aug. 15 for the seniors.

A representative of the Nationwide Insurance Co. presented an insurance plan but it was decided to withhold a decision until after the player signups March 31. Each district will be responsible for signing players, and for locations. The dates will also be set by the individual districts.

The club and officers expressed appreciation to the auxiliary for a check for $572 towards the club's field and building fund. Next meeting will be March 10.

Tulane Eyes New Losing 'Record'

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Tonight is the night Tulane can set a major college basketball record as the all-time one-season bust.

The Greenies play host to Louisiana State on their home court in New Orleans in their last game of the season. If they lose their won-lost record will read 0-23.

Never before has there been such a disastrous season in major college annals. The Citadel holds the longest major losing streak with 37 set a decade ago, but the Cadets' worst one season mark against collegiate competition was 0-17 in 1955.

Oddly the last game Tulane won was against LSU in its final 1963 contest and the preparations of the Greenies to avoid a 1964 blank overshadowed Thursday night's results.

Davidson, ranked seventh nationally and the only team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action, easily won its first round game in the Southern Conference championship tourney at Charlotte. The Wildcats walloped The Citadel 91-62.

In other first round games West Virginia defeated William and Mary 85-73, Virginia Military edged Furman 77-73 and George Washington upset Virginia Tech 64-62.

Davidson opposes VMI and West Virginia meets GW in the semifinals tonight with Davidson and West Virginia favored to meet for the championship and an automatic NCAA berth Saturday night.

George Wilson and Ron Bonham accounted for all but 18 of Cincinnati's points as the Bearcats nipped Bradley, 64-62, in a Missouri Valley Conference game at Peoria. Wilson had 25 and Bonham 21 as Cincinnati improved its season mark to 15-9 and its loop record to 5-6.

Only two other Ohio teams were in action Thursday night.

Youngstown, one of the nation's top-rated small college teams, won its 22nd victory of the campaign at Geneva (Pa.), 77-53. The Penguins have lost only two games. Dave Culliver scored 22 points and Fred Jones 21 to spark their latest win.

Marshall's Big Green trounced Steubenville, 71-56, at Huntington, W. Va., rounding out the action.

Wilt Meshes 40, Gets 31 Rebounds As Warriors Win

ST. LOUIS (AP)—An unselfish Wilt Chamberlain scored 40 points and captured 31 rebounds Thursday night in leading the San Francisco Warriors to a 107-97 victory over the St. Louis Hawks in the only National Basketball Association game played.

The triumph also pushed the Warriors three games in front of the Hawks in the race for the Western Division title. Each team has 12 games to play.

"He played one of his greatest games," said Warrior Coach Alex Hannum of Chamberlain's performance against the Hawks. "It was a very unselfish game."

Hannum said Chamberlain told the rest of the Warriors to shoot just before the game started.

Everybody Knows Cassius Talks, Question Now Is--Can He Fight?

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI BEACH (AP)—Everybody knows Cassius Clay can talk. The question is: Can he fight?

Even though he is the new heavyweight champion of the world, surprise conqueror of the formidable Sonny Liston, there still is widespread reluctance to rate him the true king of the fist fighters.

Liston himself holds the Louisville youngster in contempt. The former champion says he lost to Clay last Tuesday night only because he wrenched his shoulder in the first round and couldn't go on after the sixth.

"He's a dancer — a foot racer," Liston said dourly of Cassius after their bout. "Floyd Patterson was better."

This borders on insult since Liston twice demolished Patterson in the first round.

Many ring observers consider the good-looking, 22-year-old former Olympic champion still a crude amateur who has gained his present high station on an astounding combination of expert managerial handling, good breaks and impudence.

They rate him no better than an even-money bet against a half-dozen contenders and say Liston would hammer him into senselessness if he had two good arms.

Others tag Clay a modern wizard, blessed with exceptionally fast hands and feet, a head, lightning reflexes and enough confidence to stock an army.

Pay your money and take your choice but you still wind up with the fact that Clay has not yet convincingly proved himself—in the tradition of Jack Dempsey, Joe Louis and Rocky Marciano—that he can lick anybody of unlimited size in the padded ring.

Only a repeat, unsullied victory over the powerful Liston can bring him this distinction and even then there probably would be some buffs to contend that he won over a weary old man.

Clay's record shows 20 victories, 16 by knockouts, since he put his Olympic gold medal in the trophy case and turned professional in October, 1960.

You can't fault that record on the surface, but you have to made reservations when you consider how the mark was achieved. The 11-man Louisville syndicate which assumed Clay's management and the wily trainer Angelo Dundee, did a masterful job in nursing their product to this multi-million-dollar shot at the championship.

They had a master plan. They fed him a succession of easy opponents, not set-ups entirely but men they knew Cassius could lick. In many cases, these were reputable fighters going down the sunset side of the hill.

Even then, there were some close shaves. On Feb. 10, 1962, Sonny Banks, a clumsy operator just out of the preliminary ranks, belted Clay with a left that sent him spinning to the canvas. Billy Daniels staggered him twice on May 19, of the same year. Doug Jones held him to split decision on March 13 last year before a packed house at Madison Square Garden. And Henry Cooper, a chopped-up, cut-prone old fighter from Britain well past his prime, dropped him in a bout in London last June.

These spotty successes brought Cassius to the threshold, where he surprised the boxing world by stopping Liston, a 7-1 favorite in the seventh round.

The glowering, bull-strong defending champion insisted that after hurting his shoulder with a wild left hook in the opening round he was fighting "like a man handcuffed to a tree."

When Liston said, this however, he wore dark glasses to hide a patch covering a six-stitch wound on his left cheek. There was a big knot on his right cheek and he looked like a chopped-up, beaten and crestfallen man.

There are those who believe Clay, who fought a masterful fight, would have whipped the lumbering, sluggish Liston anyhow and certainly would have knocked him out in the seventh or eighth round had the bout been allowed to continue.

Clay's strategy was impeccable, even if he failed to uncork the kind of explosive punch that brings a fight to a sudden and indisputable ending. He moved from side to side with the grace of a ballet dancer, he kept flicking shots through openings as Liston charged him, like an enraged beast.

It was the clever matador against the dull bull. Clay weaved and danced. He moved in and out. As the fight progressed and Liston slowed, Clay became bolder and more careless, stood toe-to-toe with Liston at times and gained in confidence and sheer arrogance.

"This boy has everything," says Dundee, Clay's trainer. "He has great legs. His hands are as fast as a snake's tongue. His reflexes are amazing. What most people don't realize is that he not only is a good boxer but he also can hit — not a crunching puncher but a deadly and effective one. Else how could he have so many knockouts."

Solomon McTier, a former heavyweight now retired, calls Cassius "The most wonderful boxer I ever saw" but added that the Louisville Lip is inclined to be careless and foolhardy.

"That's his big trouble." Adds McTier, "He is too apt to get cocky in the ring and leave himself open. When he wants to concentrate, he is unbeatable."

Clay is a show-off fighter, just as he is a blow-hard out of the ring. He hot dogs it. Occasionally he lets his left hand drop to his side, making him an easy target. He lets his head lean back to avoid punches and, in doing so, leaves himself unguarded for a man who might be fast enough to follow up quickly.

It is little foibles such as these—plus the fact that Cassius is not a soporific puncher—which lends rise to the belief that he may find it hard retaining his championship.

If he entered the ring tomorrow against such fighters as Ernie Terrell, Eddie Machen, Doug Jones and Zora Folley, not to mention Patterson, he would be no better than an even-money bet.

Clay, however, refuses to be dissuaded from the belief that he is destined for greatness.

"No one in the world can touch me," he brags. "I am too fast. I am too good. I am too pretty. I am the greatest."

The greatest? Perhaps. But only time will tell.

Rooney, Hinkle Among New Grid Hall Of Fame Members

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Seven new members of pro football's Hall of Fame will be inducted here next Sept. 8 in ceremonies preceding the annual Hall of Fame game.

The latest members, announced Thursday, include six players from the 1920s and 1930s and Art Rooney, founder and owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers. All are living.

In addition to Rooney, the others are center George Trafton, tackle Ed Healey, tackle Roy (Link) Lyman, August (Mike) Michalske, fullback Clark Hinkle and halfback Jimmy Conzelman.

Life-size busts of the members will be cast in bronze and a huge action mural will be created and placed in the hall in Canton, birthplace of the National Football League in 1920.

Trafton played with the Chicago Bears from 1920 to 1932 and Healy was with the Rock Island and Chicago teams from 1920 to 1927.

Lyman was a tackle with the Canton Bulldogs, Cleveland and the Bears from 1922 to 1934. Michalske broke in with the old New York Yankees of the first American League and also played with Green Bay between 1927 and 1937.

Conzelman played on the Great Lakes Navy team with George Halas in the 1919 Rose Bowl and played with the Bears and Rock Island before starting his coaching career.

Hinkle has been called the Packers' greatest all around player, starring for Green Bay from 1932 to 1941.

Rooney is the only new member who did not play organized football. He saw semi-pro action before founding the Steelers in 1933.

The latest additions join 17 charter members installed last year when the Hall of Fame was established.

$100,000-A-Year Mantle Eyes 150 Games In 1964

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Mickey Mantle, the American League's highest salaried star, has modest ambitions for a hundred thousand dollar a year man.

Baseball's greatest switch hitter wants to play 150 games this year. He also would like to hit 500 home runs before he calls it a career. In 13 major league season, all with the New York Yankees, Mantle has hit 419 home runs.

These aims are not as trifling as they seem. Playing 150 or more games a season has been as difficult for Mickey as a .300 batting average for the average player. Only four times has the brittle athlete reached 150 games and twice he had to achieve that figure with the aid of pinch hit appearances.

Normally a slugger of Mantle's calibre would figure to accumulate around 600 lifetime homers, until you take into account his history of crippling injuries, the last of which reduced his activity to 65 games in 1963. A foot fracture last June 5 caused him to be sidelined for more than a month. A torn cartilage which necessitated a postseason knee operation, kept him out of action for another month.

Another similar injury might end his playing days altogether.

"I felt like quitting last year," Mantle admitted during a lavish press conference marking his signing of a second successive $100,000 contract as the Yankees officially opened spring training Thursday.

"I feel a lot better now, though," he added. "I think my knees, both of them, will hold up. I've done a lot of running and have played a lot of golf this winter. The other day I was timed for the 100 yards in 11 seconds and I ran at only three-quarters speed.

"Also I've been exercising with those new isometric bars and they've strengthened my legs and knees considerably. I've always had bad knees. If I had done this at the beginning, I wouldn't have had any trouble with my knees."

Mantle, who will be 33 next October, thinks he can play at top speed for another three to four years.

"That is," he said quickly, "if everything goes well. You never can tell what the future holds for you. Something always seems to happen to me. But I see no reason why I can't play until I'm 35 or 36. Of course, I'd like to play as long as Stan Musial did. But how many do?"

Mantle would like to remain in the game in a coaching capacity when his active days are over.

Mantle wasn't the only name player to sign Thursday. The Minnesota Twins corraled home run champ Harmon Killebrew and the Chicago White Sox received a contract from pitcher Ray Herbert.

In the National League, St. Louis Cardinals signed first baseman Bill White who hit .304 last year.

Auto Kills Boy, 8, Drags Body 109 Feet

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A car that struck and killed 8-year-old Mark Meyers Thursday carried the boy's body 109 feet before stopping, police said. He was on his way home from school.

Charles Ulch, 21, of Toledo, the motorist, was cited for speeding.

Dawson's Spoils McNutt's Perfect 6th Grade Record

Dawson's spoiled McNutt's perfect season with a 12-6 victory Thursday in the Little Potters 6th Grade League.

McNutt's had rolled through nine straight games unbeaten and had clinched the title last week. Dawson's wound up in second place with an 8-2 mark.

VanMeter paced Dawson's with four points while Bob Moore scored three for the losers.

Walker poured in 11 points as Eason's ripped Potters Bank, 22-9. March paced the Potters with four.

Bob Curran's won its second game of the campaign with a 9-8 margin over First National.

Hill Rise Top Santa Anita Derby Choice

By TED MEIER

Whether California has a colt worthy of Kentucky Derby stature will be determined Saturday with the 27th running of the $132,400 Santa Anita Derby.

The 1⅛-mile race, one of the major winter tests that helps determine the field for the classic at Churchill Downs in Kentucky on May 2, tops the thoroughbred program this weekend.

Usually the Flamingo at Hialeah, another major test for three-year-olds, is run on the same day as the Santa Anita. This year, however, the Flamingo is set for next Tuesday, closing day at Hialeah.

Replacing the Flamingo Saturday is the $75,000-added Hialeah Turf Cup.

Hill Rise, owned by George Pope, Jr. of San Francisco, tops the Santa Anita field. Winner of his last five races, he will be ridden by Don Pierce.

His strongest opposition is expected from Wil Rad, Bill Hartack up. Wil Rad drew the No. 1 post position and Hill Rise No. 8.

Completing the field is The Scoundrel, Stargazer, Madias, Knightly Manner, Real Good Deal and the entry of Ramant and Count Charles. All carry 118 pounds.

Manuel Ycaza had the mount on Knightly Manner, but he drew a five-day suspension Thursday which not only cost him this mount, but also Roman Brother in the Flamingo. Bill Shoemaker, battling for the jockey lead at Santa Anita, will be in the irons astride The Scoundrel.

Parka, at 121 pounds, tops the Hialeah Turf Cup probables. Sunrise Flight is not expected to go in the 1½ miles over grass because of a bruised heel suffered in the Widener last week.

They had a master plan. They fed him a succession of easy opponents, not set-ups entirely but men they knew Cassius could lick. In many cases, these were reputable fighters going down the sunset side of the hill.

Even then, there were some close shaves. On Feb. 10, 1962, Sonny Banks, a clumsy operator just out of the preliminary ranks, belted Clay with a left that sent him spinning to the canvas. Billy Daniels staggered him twice on May 19, of the same year. Doug Jones held him to split decision on March 13 last year before a packed house at Madison Square Garden. And Henry Cooper, a chopped-up, cut-prone old fighter from Britain well past his prime, dropped him in a bout in London last June.

These spotty successes brought Cassius to the threshold, where he surprised the boxing world by stopping Liston, a 7-1 favorite in the seventh round.

The glowering, bull-strong defending champion insisted that after hurting his shoulder with a wild left hook in the opening round he was fighting "like a man handcuffed to a tree."

When Liston said, this however, he wore dark glasses to hide a patch covering a six-stitch wound on his left cheek. There was a big knot on his right cheek and he looked like a chopped-up, beaten and crestfallen man.

There are those who believe Clay, who fought a masterful fight, would have whipped the lumbering, sluggish Liston anyhow and certainly would have knocked him out in the seventh or eighth round had the bout been allowed to continue.

Clay's strategy was impeccable, even if he failed to uncork the kind of explosive punch that brings a fight to a sudden and indisputable ending. He moved from side to side with the grace of a ballet dancer, he kept flicking shots through openings as Liston charged him, like an enraged beast.

It was the clever matador against the dull bull. Clay weaved and danced. He moved in and out. As the fight progressed and Liston slowed, Clay became bolder and more careless, stood toe-to-toe with Liston at times and gained in confidence and sheer arrogance.

"This boy has everything," says Dundee, Clay's trainer. "He has great legs. His hands are as fast as a snake's tongue. His reflexes are amazing. What most people don't realize is that he not only is a good boxer but he also can hit — not a crunching puncher but a deadly and effective one. Else how could he have so many knockouts."

Solomon McTier, a former heavyweight now retired, calls Cassius "The most wonderful boxer I ever saw" but added that the Louisville Lip is inclined to be careless and foolhardy.

"That's his big trouble." Adds McTier, "He is too apt to get cocky in the ring and leave himself open. When he wants to concentrate, he is unbeatable."

Clay is a show-off fighter, just as he is a blow-hard out of the ring. He hot dogs it. Occasionally he lets his left hand drop to his side, making him an easy target. He lets his head lean back to avoid punches and, in doing so, leaves himself unguarded for a man who might be fast enough to follow up quickly.

It is little foibles such as these—plus the fact that Cassius is not a soporific puncher—which lends rise to the belief that he may find it hard retaining his championship.

If he entered the ring tomorrow against such fighters as Ernie Terrell, Eddie Machen, Doug Jones and Zora Folley, not to mention Patterson, he would be no better than an even-money bet.

Clay, however, refuses to be dissuaded from the belief that he is destined for greatness.

"No one in the world can touch me," he brags. "I am too fast. I am too good. I am too pretty. I am the greatest."

The greatest? Perhaps. But only time will tell.

Rooney, Hinkle Among New Grid Hall Of Fame Members

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Seven new members of pro football's Hall of Fame will be inducted here next Sept. 8 in ceremonies preceding the annual Hall of Fame game.

The latest members, announced Thursday, include six players from the 1920s and 1930s and Art Rooney, founder and owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers. All are living.

In addition to Rooney, the others are center George Trafton, tackle Ed Healey, tackle Roy (Link) Lyman, August (Mike) Michalske, fullback Clark Hinkle and halfback Jimmy Conzelman.

Life-size busts of the members will be cast in bronze and a huge action mural will be created and placed in the hall in Canton, birthplace of the National Football League in 1920.

Trafton played with the Chicago Bears from 1920 to 1932 and Healy was with the Rock Island and Chicago teams from 1920 to 1927.

Lyman was a tackle with the Canton Bulldogs, Cleveland and the Bears from 1922 to 1934. Michalske broke in with the old New York Yankees of the first American League and also played with Green Bay between 1927 and 1937.

Conzelman played on the Great Lakes Navy team with George Halas in the 1919 Rose Bowl and played with the Bears and Rock Island before starting his coaching career.

Hinkle has been called the Packers' greatest all around player, starring for Green Bay from 1932 to 1941.

Rooney is the only new member who did not play organized football. He saw semi-pro action before founding the Steelers in 1933.

The latest additions join 17 charter members installed last year when the Hall of Fame was established.

$100,000-A-Year Mantle Eyes 150 Games In 1964

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Mickey Mantle, the American League's highest salaried star, has modest ambitions for a hundred thousand dollar a year man.

Baseball's greatest switch hitter wants to play 150 games this year. He also would like to hit 500 home runs before he calls it a career. In 13 major league season, all with the New York Yankees, Mantle has hit 419 home runs.

These aims are not as trifling as they seem. Playing 150 or more games a season has been as difficult for Mickey as a .300 batting average for the average player. Only four times has the brittle athlete reached 150 games and twice he had to achieve that figure with the aid of pinch hit appearances.

Normally a slugger of Mantle's calibre would figure to accumulate around 600 lifetime homers, until you take into account his history of crippling injuries, the last of which reduced his activity to 65 games in 1963. A foot fracture last June 5 caused him to be sidelined for more than a month. A torn cartilage which necessitated a postseason knee operation, kept him out of action for another month.

Another similar injury might end his playing days altogether.

"I felt like quitting last year," Mantle admitted during a lavish press conference marking his signing of a second successive $100,000 contract as the Yankees officially opened spring training Thursday.

"I feel a lot better now, though," he added. "I think my knees, both of them, will hold up. I've done a lot of running and have played a lot of golf this winter. The other day I was timed for the 100 yards in 11 seconds and I ran at only three-quarters speed.

"Also I've been exercising with those new isometric bars and they've strengthened my legs and knees considerably. I've always had bad knees. If I had done this at the beginning, I wouldn't have had any trouble with my knees."

Mantle, who will be 33 next October, thinks he can play at top speed for another three to four years.

"That is," he said quickly, "if everything goes well. You never can tell what the future holds for you. Something always seems to happen to me. But I see no reason why I can't play until I'm 35 or 36. Of course, I'd like to play as long as Stan Musial did. But how many do?"

Mantle would like to remain in the game in a coaching capacity when his active days are over.

Mantle wasn't the only name player to sign Thursday. The Minnesota Twins corraled home run champ Harmon Killebrew and the Chicago White Sox received a contract from pitcher Ray Herbert.

In the National League, St. Louis Cardinals signed first baseman Bill White who hit .304 last year.

Auto Kills Boy, 8, Drags Body 109 Feet

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A car that struck and killed 8-year-old Mark Meyers Thursday carried the boy's body 109 feet before stopping, police said. He was on his way home from school.

Charles Ulch, 21, of Toledo, the motorist, was cited for speeding.

Dawson's Spoils McNutt's Perfect 6th Grade Record

Dawson's spoiled McNutt's perfect season with a 12-6 victory Thursday in the Little Potters 6th Grade League.

McNutt's had rolled through nine straight games unbeaten and had clinched the title last week. Dawson's wound up in second place with an 8-2 mark.

VanMeter paced Dawson's with four points while Bob Moore scored three for the losers.

Walker poured in 11 points as Eason's ripped Potters Bank, 22-9. March paced the Potters with four.

Bob Curran's won its second game of the campaign with a 9-8 margin over First National.

Hill Rise Top Santa Anita Derby Choice

By TED MEIER

Whether California has a colt worthy of Kentucky Derby stature will be determined Saturday with the 27th running of the $132,400 Santa Anita Derby.

The 1⅛-mile race, one of the major winter tests that helps determine the field for the classic at Churchill Downs in Kentucky on May 2, tops the thoroughbred program this weekend.

Usually the Flamingo at Hialeah, another major test for three-year-olds, is run on the same day as the Santa Anita. This year, however, the Flamingo is set for next Tuesday, closing day at Hialeah.

Replacing the Flamingo Saturday is the $75,000-added Hialeah Turf Cup.

Hill Rise, owned by George Pope, Jr. of San Francisco, tops the Santa Anita field. Winner of his last five races, he will be ridden by Don Pierce.

His strongest opposition is expected from Wil Rad, Bill Hartack up. Wil Rad drew the No. 1 post position and Hill Rise No. 8.

Completing the field is The Scoundrel, Stargazer, Madias, Knightly Manner, Real Good Deal and the entry of Ramant and Count Charles. All carry 118 pounds.

Manuel Ycaza had the mount on Knightly Manner, but he drew a five-day suspension Thursday which not only cost him this mount, but also Roman Brother in the Flamingo. Bill Shoemaker, battling for the jockey lead at Santa Anita, will be in the irons astride The Scoundrel.

Parka, at 121 pounds, tops the Hialeah Turf Cup probables. Sunrise Flight is not expected to go in the 1½ miles over grass because of a bruised heel suffered in the Widener last week.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Today when I read the letter about the 16 - year - old girl who was ashamed of her retarded brother I nearly cried.

I'm 15 and have a little 6-year-old brother who also is mentally retarded. He is the most loveable little kid I know. Everyone in our family showers him with affection and he returns it ten-fold.

You are right, Ann, when you say it is the responsibility of the parents to educate the other members of the family, but they must first be educated themselves, and not all parents are. I was glad when you told them to write to the National Association for Mental Retardation for literature, because that's exactly what my folks did.

I have presented numerous reports on this subject at school and have taught my classmates a lot. Mental retardation, like epilepsy and other brain disorders, is just now emerging from the dark ages of ignorance. The only weapon against ignorance is education. Thank you for helping, Ann. — NOT ASHAMED.

Dear Not Ashamed: You are making the best of a golden opportunity to enrich the lives of those around you. God bless you, Honey, and God bless your parents. Because of their wisdom you are compassionate and understanding, instead of ignorant and bitter.

The Writer Is Right

Dear Ann: The letter from the man who signed himself "Mere Male" should be reproduced and handed to every young groom—along with his marriage certificate. In my opinion, it's the classic example of what ails the American husbands.

This man wrote you a pathetic letter saying he didn't want much out of life, just a few small considerations—like getting the newspaper in readable condition. He complained that by the time the rest of the family got through with the paper it wasn't fit to wrap garbage in.

You—a newspaper woman to the end—ignored the central problem and suggested a second subscription.

Don't you see this is precisely what is wrong with the American home? The females run everything. The father-husband is supposed to pay the bills, keep the gas tank filled and his trap shut. I'm sure you know all this Ann Landers, so —why don't you live up to your responsibility and say it?—ANOTHER ONE.

-:-

Dear One: You are right and I apologize. But I've said it so many times I didn't want to be a bore.

In the Landers column I repeatedly point out what the male's position in the family should be.

Unfortunately, many men want to be dominated and pushed around and these males invariably find a woman who is happy to oblige.

Never, Never Land

Dear Ann: I'm still burning over the letter from "New Wrinkle"—the cat who was sure the girl who wore the same dress to work on Friday that she wore on Thursday did not sleep at home that night. The column was the day's principal topic of discussion around the office.

As a protest against such cheap gossip I have worn the same dress to work every day this week. Nobody noticed until today — Friday. This morning three people kidded me because I'm wearing the same dress today that I had on yesterday.

So, Ann, it seems the only point that got through their wooden heads is to check Friday's dress against Thursday's.

My tip to you girls who may be sitting up all night with a sick friend(or a well one, for that matter) is never on Thursday.—IN THE KNOW.

-:-

Dear In: You should have ended the last sentence after the word never.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Voting Board To Pick Staff

The biennial reorganization meeting of the Columbiana County Election Board is scheduled Monday at 1 p. m. in its office on W. 6th St.

The board will name a chairman, clerk, deputy clerk and assistant clerk.

Carl L. Stacey of Columbiana, Democrat, now is chairman. Frank R. O'Hanlon of East Liverpool, Republican, is clerk, a post he has held since 1937. Mrs. Hillis Conner of East Liverpool is deputy clerk and Miss Rebecca Resnick, also of East Liverpool, is deputy clerk. Mrs. Conner is a Democrat and Miss Resnick is a Republican.

The reorganization meeting is required by state law following the recent appointment of Stacey and Atty. Charles A. Pike of Lisbon, Republican, for new four - year terms.

State law says the reorganization meeting must be held within five days after the effective date of the new terms. The two will begin the new terms Sunday.

Hold-over members of the board are Don R. Gosney of Columbiana, Democrat, and Atty. James L. McSweeney of Wellsville, Republican.

Election Board members are appointed by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, Ohio's chief election officer. Stacey and Pike were recommended for new terms by their respective county party organizations. They already have taken the oath of office from Brown.

State law requires that the chairman and the clerk must be of opposite parties.

Balzan Foundation To Name '63 Winners

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Blocked funds or not, the embattled Balzan Foundation plans to name all its 1963 prize winners. Its secretary general, Col. Aldo Danielli, says he will put up the prize money himself if necessary.

A Balzan spokesman said Thursday prizes of about $50,000 each probably will be announced this weekend for history and literary criticism, paleontology, astronomy and astrophysics, and political economy.

The Swiss government froze the Swiss - Italian foundation's funds in Swiss banks this week because of an internal dispute over the way the $151,000 Balzan peace prize for 1963 was awarded to the United Nations. A number of members of the Balzan prize committee complain they were not consulted.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Today when I read the letter about the 16 - year - old girl who was ashamed of her retarded brother I nearly cried.

I'm 15 and have a little 6-year-old brother who also is mentally retarded. He is the most loveable little kid I know. Everyone in our family showers him with affection and he returns it ten-fold.

You are right, Ann, when you say it is the responsibility of the parents to educate the other members of the family, but they must first be educated themselves, and not all parents are. I was glad when you told them to write to the National Association for Mental Retardation for literature, because that's exactly what my folks did.

I have presented numerous reports on this subject at school and have taught my classmates a lot. Mental retardation, like epilepsy and other brain disorders, is just now emerging from the dark ages of ignorance. The only weapon against ignorance is education. Thank you for helping, Ann. — NOT ASHAMED.

Dear Not Ashamed: You are making the best of a golden opportunity to enrich the lives of those around you. God bless you, Honey, and God bless your parents. Because of their wisdom you are compassionate and understanding, instead of ignorant and bitter.

The Writer Is Right

Dear Ann: The letter from the man who signed himself "Mere Male" should be reproduced and handed to every young groom—along with his marriage certificate. In my opinion, it's the classic example of what ails the American husbands.

This man wrote you a pathetic letter saying he didn't want much out of life, just a few small considerations—like getting the newspaper in readable condition. He complained that by the time the rest of the family got through with the paper it wasn't fit to wrap garbage in.

You—a newspaper woman to the end—ignored the central problem and suggested a second subscription.

Don't you see this is precisely what is wrong with the American home? The females run everything. The father-husband is supposed to pay the bills, keep the gas tank filled and his trap shut. I'm sure you know all this Ann Landers, so—why don't you live up to your responsibility and say it?—ANOTHER ONE.

-:-

Dear One: You are right and I apologize. But I've said it so many times I didn't want to be a bore.

In the Landers column I repeatedly point out what the male's position in the family should be.

Unfortunately, many men want to be dominated and pushed around and these males invariably find a woman who is happy to oblige.

Never, Never Land

Dear Ann: I'm still burning over the letter from "New Wrinkle"—the cat who was sure the girl who wore the same dress to work on Friday that she wore on Thursday did not sleep at home that night. The column was the day's principal topic of discussion around the office.

As a protest against such cheap gossip I have worn the same dress to work every day this week. Nobody noticed until today — Friday. This morning three people kidded me because I'm wearing the same dress today that I had on yesterday.

So, Ann, it seems the only point that got through their wooden heads is to check Friday's dress against Thursday's.

My tip to you girls who may be sitting up all night with a sick friend(or a well one, for that matter) is never on Thursday.—IN THE KNOW.

-:-

Dear In: You should have ended the last sentence after the word never.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Voting Board To Pick Staff

The biennial reorganization meeting of the Columbiana County Election Board is scheduled Monday at 1 p. m. in its office on W. 6th St.

The board will name a chairman, clerk, deputy clerk and assistant clerk.

Carl L. Stacey of Columbiana, Democrat, now is chairman. Frank R. O'Hanlon of East Liverpool, Republican, is clerk, a post he has held since 1937. Mrs. Hillis Conner of East Liverpool is deputy clerk and Miss Rebecca Resnick, also of East Liverpool, is deputy clerk. Mrs. Conner is a Democrat and Miss Resnick is a Republican.

The reorganization meeting is required by state law following the recent appointment of Stacey and Atty. Charles A. Pike of Lisbon, Republican, for new four - year terms.

State law says the reorganization meeting must be held within five days after the effective date of the new terms. The two will begin the new terms Sunday.

Hold-over members of the board are Don R. Gosney of Columbiana, Democrat, and Atty. James L. McSweeney of Wellsville, Republican.

Election Board members are appointed by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, Ohio's chief election officer. Stacey and Pike were recommended for new terms by their respective county party organizations. They already have taken the oath of office from Brown.

State law requires that the chairman and the clerk must be of opposite parties.

Balzan Foundation To Name '63 Winners

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Blocked funds or not, the embattled Balzan Foundation plans to name all its 1963 prize winners. Its secretary general, Col. Aldo Danielli, says he will put up the prize money himself if necessary.

A Balzan spokesman said Thursday prizes of about $50,000 each probably will be announced this weekend for history and literary criticism, paleontology, astronomy and astrophysics, and political economy.

The Swiss government froze the Swiss - Italian foundation's funds in Swiss banks this week because of an internal dispute over the way the $151,000 Balzan peace prize for 1963 was awarded to the United Nations. A number of members of the Balzan prize committee complain they were not consulted.

Junior Editors Quiz on TAXIDERMY

QUESTION: How do taxidermists make animals look so life like?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Modern taxidermy — the art of mounting animals—had its origin in the 1500's, but the first examples, as we show at upper left, were crude; the skins were simply sewed up and stuffed with straw. In the late 1800's a brilliant naturalist and sculptor, Carl E. Akeley, worked out a way of making mounted animals look unbelievably real. In this process (1) the skin of the animal is carefully measured and a complete model made in clay to show the action and all the muscles. Then (2) this is covered with plaster, which, when taken off, makes a mould in several pieces. Each mould piece is then lined with burlap dipped in glue. When dry, the stiffened burlap pieces are taken out and joined together, making a light but strong manikin of the animal's body. The animal's skin is stretched over this. When such animals are set in a museum "group" with foilage and skillfully painted background, the effect is so real it gives you a shock—you feel you're out in the wilderness with huge animals right next to you.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Get some paper, fold each piece and draw an animal on one side so that his back touches the folded edge. Then cut the doubled paper around the animal, but don't cut the fold. Unfold the papers slightly at bottom and your animals will all stand up.

Successor To Hilsman Narrowed To List Of 4

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

HILSMAN SUCCESSOR: The Johnson administration's quest for a successor to Roger Hilsman as assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs is reported to have narrowed to a list of four candidates.

One of those is William P. Bundy, a key aide of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and brother of McGeorge Bundy, presidential adviser for national security affairs, sources reported.

Informants declined to identify the three other candidates for Hilsman's job but all were said to be experts on Asian affairs.

—:—

PACIFIC COMMANDER: Adm. Ulysses S. Grant Sharp, chief of the U.S. Pacific Fleet and specialist in strategic planning, reportedly will be given over-all command of the Pacific-Far Eastern area.

Sharp, informants said, will replace Adm. Harry D. Felt, who has headed the Unified Military Command in the Pacific for six years and reaches the mandatory retirement age of 62 this summer.

A native of Chinook, Mont., Sharp, 57, became fleet commander in the Pacific only last September after having served in the Pentagon as deputy chief of naval operations for plans.

—:—

ASSASSINATION PROBE: The Warren commission has completed hearing testimony of James Martin, who has been business agent for Mrs. Lee Harvey Oswald, without disclosing what he said.

Asked if the Dallas businessman had been a cooperative witness in the investigation of John F. Kennedy's assassination, commission general counsel J. Lee Rankin said only: "He responded to our questions."

Chief Justice Earl Warren, head of the commission, had said Martin was called because of his close association with the Oswald family after Kennedy was slain, Nov. 22 in Dallas, and Oswald was accused of the killing.

Prayers In Public Schools Still Boiling Issue In House

WASHINGTON (AP) — On June 25, 1962, the Supreme Court barred recitation of an official prayer in the public schools of New York.

Shortly afterward, cut into the marble above the chair of the speaker of the House and picked out in gilt paint, appeared the legend "In God We Trust."

The target was obvious, and the speedy reaction was an indication of the opposition of many House members of the court's decision.

Nearly two years and several more court prayer decisions later, the issue still is boiling in the House.

No less than 144 resolutions to amend the Constitution so as to nullify the Supreme Court's decisions have been introduced in the House. They have been referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., ordered his staff to conduct a painstaking survey of the whole question. This report has now been completed and is in the hands of Judiciary Committee members.

Celler has promised public hearings soon.

But Rep. Frank J. Becker, R-N.Y., is impatient. He introduced one of the first constitutional amendments to get around the court ruling. It would say nothing in the Constitution could be construed to bar prayers or Bible reading in public schools on a voluntary basis.

In an effort to speed things up, Becker has filed a discharge petition for his amendment, a device aimed at taking it out of the Judiciary Committee's hands and bring it directly to the House floor.

This takes the signatures of 218 House members, a majority, on the discharge petition. So far Becker has collected 149.

District Dam Start Slated

Atty. Donald Elliott of Rogers, president, reported at the meeting of the Columbiana County Forest and Parks Council Thursday night at Lisbon construction is slated to start this year on the proposed Highlandtown lake and dam — if there are no delays in acquisition of the additional land that is needed.

He reported on the conference held Feb. 17 at Columbus by the council committee with the Ohio Department of Natural Resources in connection with plans for the district recreation center and other projects.

Funds are not yet available for purchase of much land in Beaver Creek State Park but owners with acreage for sale are asked to contact the Ohio Department of Natural Resources in Columbus as options can be taken anytime, the group was told.

Work on restoration of Gaston's Mill in the Beaver Creek Park is under way and it is expected it will be open to visitors this summer. Several thousand dollars still is needed to complete this winter's work. Persons, organizations and firms desiring to help may send their contributions now to Floyd Lower at Lisbon, council treasurer. Checks should be made out to Gaston's Mill Fund. The entire restoration is being done with local voluntary funds under an agreement with the State Division.

It was announced the annual meeting for election of officers will be held March 26 at 8 p. m. in St. George's Parish hall at Lisbon. This will be a public session with all interested organizations invited to send representatives, along with any person interested in the council's work. E. J. Gebhart, chief of the Ohio Division of Parks, will be principal speaker.

Approximately 30 attended the meeting in the County Extension Service Office.

Speakers included Gene Murdock of Ravenna, Northeast Ohio representative of the Ohio Conservation Congress, and Rep. Clarence (Dutch) Wetzel.

Atty. Elliott presided.

Beverage Firm Lists 1963 Sales Increase

AKRON — An increase in sales for the American Beverage Corp. for 1963 has been reported by Julius Darksy, president of the corporation, of which the Golden Age Beverage Co. of Youngstown is a division.

Sales amounted to $11.6 million for the year ended Oct. 31, compared to $10.4 million for the previous period. Earnings decreased from the previous year, he added.

Expansion programs are under way at the Youngstown facility which serves the East Liverpool area, Darsky said.

It's a good idea to brush the tops of standard baking powder biscuits with milk or melted butter or margarine before baking.

5 Firemen, Two Tenants Suffer Injuries In Fire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Five firemen and two tenants suffered minor injuries Thursday night when an explosion and fire rocked an apartment house in suburban Bexley.

The blast shattered windows in the apartment building where it occurred and could be heard at least four blocks away, witnesses said.

Firemen were battling a blaze in the basement of the building at 3045 Belwood Court when the explosion—apparently caused by a ruptured natural gas line—shook the neighbrohood. The injured were treated at St. Anthony Hospital.

Firemen were investigating the explosion and fire said no damage estimate had been made.

Five Escape Injury

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Five persons escaped injury at Port Columbus Airport late Thursday when the landing gear on a 10-passenger Midwest Airlines plane collapsed while landing.

Youngstown Company Eyes Facility At Niles

NILES, Ohio (AP)—Oakwood Billets, a Youngstown aluminum smelting company, expects to start operations this fall at the old Stanley Works plant here with 40 workers on the initial payroll.

Oakwood will install $250,000 worth of modern equipment for direct casting of aluminum billets, according to H. A. Stein of Cleveland. He has leased part of the Stanley property he owns to Oakwood.

Safety Council Eyes West Virginia Pike

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) —A study of the West Virginia Turnpike will be made by the National Safety Council to find out why the 88-mile highway is the nation's deadliest toll road.

Traffic accidents have killed 115 persons on the toll road since it opened 10 years ago, the worst record of any toll road in the nation. The West Virginia Turnpike is one of the few two-lane toll roads in the country.

Work on restoration of Gaston's Mill in the Beaver Creek Park is under way and it is expected it will be open to visitors this summer. Several thousand dollars still is needed to complete this winter's work. Persons, organizations and firms desiring to help may send their contributions now to Floyd Lower at Lisbon, council treasurer. Checks should be made out to Gaston's Mill Fund. The entire restoration is being done with local voluntary funds under an agreement with the State Division.

It was announced the annual meeting for election of officers will be held March 26 at 8 p. m. in St. George's Parish hall at Lisbon. This will be a public session with all interested organizations invited to send representatives, along with any person interested in the council's work. E. J. Gebhart, chief of the Ohio Division of Parks, will be principal speaker.

Approximately 30 attended the meeting in the County Extension Service Office.

Speakers included Gene Murdock of Ravenna, Northeast Ohio representative of the Ohio Conservation Congress, and Rep. Clarence (Dutch) Wetzel.

Atty. Elliott presided.
